Nixon Relaxes In Florida

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon, described as near a decision on deploying of a "thin" antiballistic missile shield, remained at his waterfront Florida retreat today for some final hours of relaxation before returning to the White House.

Nixon, who flew here late Friday for a respite after his exhausting European tour, was expected to be back in Washington tonight.

With the weather damp and dreary on Saturday, it seemed for a time that the chief executive might cut short his Florida stay. But the sun shone brightly Sunday and—following a two-hour morning staff meeting at his home—Nixon went aboard the Navy's 64-foot cabin cruiser, the Julie, which took him down Biscayne Bay to the point where the big pond in his front yard joins the Atlantic.

Nixon, who did not attend Sunday church services but conferred with aides on the ABM controversy and other matters, wore a plain gray sweatshirt, dark gray slacks and gray shoes on the cruise.

At the staff meeting were special assistant H. R. Haldeman and White House counsel John D. Ehrlichman. Aboard the Julie for the cruise was his friend and neighbor, C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, millionaire banker and real estate financier.

As is Nixon's custom during Florida visits, the President spent much of his free time with Rebozo. On Saturday night they surprised patrons of the dining room at the Key Biscayne Hotel by showing up for dinner.

The White House said there would be an announcement in Washington today on the new administration's choice for assistant secretary of state for inter-American affairs.

A presidential decision on the ABM, which has aroused strong opposition in Congress and some communities, was not expected until Tuesday or Wednesday.

AGREES TO 99-YEAR TERM

Ray Admits He Murdered King

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—James Earl Ray pleaded guilty today to murdering Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. and agreed to accept a 99-year sentence in the Tennessee State Penitentiary.

He said, however, that he did not agree with a theory—apparently held by his own lawyer—that there was no conspiracy to assassinate King. But, he said, "I agree with the stipulation" to plead guilty.

"I've never had hopes of anything except . . . to save this man's life," said Ray's lawyer, Percy Foreman of Houston,

Tex. "It took me months to prove to myself . . . that it was not a conspiracy."

Five witnesses then testified to the actual fact of King's slaying, at the Lorraine Motel here April 4, 1968. This is necessary under Tennessee law in a case where the death penalty could be involved.

Then, the jury must retire to go through the formality of setting the 99-year sentence.

The jury was chosen from a venire picked two weeks ago, but the jurors themselves had no idea, a court spokesman said, that they would be assigned to the Ray case until court began this morning.

Criminal Court Judge Preston Battle asked Ray, who was called to the stand whether he understood that his guilty plea meant he waived all rights to appeal. He also was asked if the decision to plead guilty was his own and of his own free will.

"I agree with the stipulation," Ray said, and then told the judge he wanted to add something.

Asked what it was, Ray said he wanted to go on record as saying he did not agree with "the theory that there was no conspiracy."

In Atlanta, Ga., the Rev. Martin Luther King, Sr., father of the slain civil rights leader, said he had no comment on Ray's plea. Mrs. Martin Luther King Jr., widow of the slain man, was reported to be out of the city and not immediately available.

Testimony in Ray's trial today began simply to establish the fact that King was killed. Five witnesses were called, in this order:

Egypt Prepares Hero's Burial For Army Chief

TEL AVIV (AP) — After two days of heavy shelling, the Suez Canal was reported quiet again today. Egypt prepared a hero's funeral for its army chief of staff, Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, who was fatally wounded by an Israeli shell Sunday.

"They are burying their general at noon, so we don't expect trouble today," an Israeli military source said.

U.N. observers blamed Egypt for the start of the artillery duel Saturday. They reported to U.N. headquarters that they observed the Egyptians firing from one to 32 minutes before the Israelis opened up along the blocked waterway.

Israeli shells hit Egypt's oil refinery at Suez for the fourth time since the 1967 war, and the Israelis said a petrochemical plant and oil storage tanks were still burning today. Egypt said three tanks were set afire.

Israel said one of its Piper Cubs was shot down, three Israelis including the pilot were killed and 14 were wounded.

Egypt said three of its men were killed and 13 wounded and it lost a MIG jet. Israel said the MIG pilot was captured. Egypt also claimed its forces brought down an Israeli Mystere jet, but Israel denied this.

The semiofficial Cairo newspaper Al Ahras said Riad had flown by helicopter to Ismailia

ANTIMISSILE DEFENSE SYSTEM

Scaled Down Plan to Cut Opposition?

WASHINGTON (AP) — An expected move by President Nixon to scale down plans for the Sentinel program may lessen opposition to the antimissile defense system, especially in Congress.

Nixon studied the controversial antiballistic missile program over the weekend in Florida and is scheduled to announce a decision early this week to employ a modified "thin" system with perhaps fewer missile sites than originally planned and further away from major population centers.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said in an interview that a cutback in the proposed number of missile sites "will satisfy some people" in Congress who are worried about the cost of the proposed ABM program.

Critics fear the system once started will grow both in cost and intent from one originally estimated at $5 billion to protect against Chinese communist rockets to a $40 billion system geared against the Soviet Union. They see this as a major escalation of the arms race.

Even supporters of the Sentinel admit the high cost, that it would take three years to build and would be capable of intercepting only small numbers of unsophisticated intercontinental ballistic missiles.

Mansfield is one of a powerful group of senators, which includes Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. who have been fighting immediate deployment of the Sentinel missile system.

An Associated Press poll over the weekend showed 47 senators opposing funds this year for Sentinel sites, 24 in favor of going ahead with the work and 29 undecided.

Last year only 34 senators voted to delay deployment of the system and that was the 1968 high water mark for opponents.

Nixon is expected to call for resumption of work on the system which started under the Johnson administration and was frozen last month amid controversy over its cost, effectiveness, danger to cities and effect on possible disarmament talks.

The administration has indicated it wants to proceed with a revamped version.

The Events That Brought RFK, Sirhan Together

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

LOS ANGELES (AP) — On the fourth of June last year, Sirhan Bishara Sirhan mullered over ways to spend a leisurely, warm day. He says he considered the races, a gunnery range, a Rosierucian meeting or work on his car that night.

Robert F. Kennedy, he says, was not in his thoughts. Psychiatrists and psychologists will attempt, beginning today, to interpret nine months later what was in Sirhan's mind when he shot the senator that night.

Sirhan professes not to remember. A series of chance, spot decisions put him into position to place his stubby little $25 revolver near the senator's head, he said last week in 3½-days of testimony during his trial for first degree murder. The prosecution says Sirhan's diaries prove the action was premeditated.

The 24-year-old Jordanian Arab, who said he has a "built-in bug" about Jews, Zionists and Israel, said his love for Kennedy turned to hate when he found out about the New York senator's long-standing support of Israel.

"Curiosity," replied Sirhan when asked why he went to Kennedy's hotel.

Kennedy, too, had a day of relaxation. Behind him were 81 days of his campaign for the Democratic nomination for president of the United States. This day, when Californians voted in their primary, would make or break the quest.

Kennedy frolicked with his children in the surf at Malibu, then returned to the Ambassador Hotel in Los Angeles for his brief taste of victory.

Sirhan, jobless but with $400 left from a $2,000 settlement for a fall from a horse, arose at 10 a.m. and made his first decision of the day. The entries at Hollywood Park race track displeased him. He decided not to go.

"I had the idea of going target shooting," he testified. Three days earlier, he bought a box of minimag ammunition more powerful than any he had used before. The minimags, he said, were suggested by a salesman who was out of Sirhan's favorite brand.

He bought more than a half-dozen boxes of ammunition and practiced at the San Gabriel Valley Gun Club until closing time, 5 o'clock, when all he had left were the eight cartridges in his gun.

He put the gun in the back seat of his car and, en route home, stopped at a restaurant in Pasadena.

His chronology continued: At the restaurant he met a friend named Mistri, an East Indian exchange student. He challenged Mistri to a couple of games of pool and was turned down.

But Mistri had bought a newspaper and Sirhan looked through it. "An advertisement caught my attention, Sirhan said.

The ad was for a "Miracle March for Israel," along Wilshire Boulevard commemorating Israel's victory in the six-day war with the Arabs a year earlier.

30 KILLED, 105 HURT

300 South Viet Paratroopers Hit

SAIGON (AP) — Hundreds of enemy troops ambushed about 300 South Vietnamese paratroopers, killing 30 of the government soldiers and wounding 105 in a two-day battle that was still going on late today, the Saigon government said.

The savage battle was one of five major fights reported in the past 24 hours—at three points near the Cambodian border and to the north and south of Saigon. The dead included 31 Americans and at least 127 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese, allied spokesmen said.

The Viet Cong also shelled more than 35 towns and allied bases during the night as the enemy's spring offensive continued in its third week. U.S. Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird told newsmen as he left Saigon after a four-day visit that the offensive is a "calculated escalation of the war." But he said it "has not been successful" and the rocket attacks which have been made on Saigon were not significant.

Laird would not reveal the recommendations he is carrying back to President Nixon, except to say that he would request additional funds to strengthen the South Vietnamese armed services. At Da Nang Sunday, he had indicated the amount would be about $70 million.

The secretary said some American troops would be replaced in due course by South Vietnamese as the latter's armed forces grew stronger. But he would not give any timetable.

Laird said the question of the mutual withdrawal of American and North Vietnamese troops is one of the subjects under consideration in Paris, and consequently he did not feel it proper to comment further in Saigon. But he did say that on the basis of his trip, he could not foresee any circumstances which would require more American forces in Vietnam.

Laird reiterated an earlier statement that continuation of rocket and mortar attacks on Saigon constituted a violation of an understanding with North Vietnam under which the United States stopped bombing North Vietnam on Nov. 1.

"If they continue," he said, "an appropriate response, in either a diplomatic or a military way, will be made."

Meanwhile, the Viet Cong pushed its spring offensive into its third week Sunday, and enemy troops dealt a battalion of South Vietnamese paratroopers and a platoon of American air cavalrymen heavy losses in two border clashes. Another American ambush patrol suffered serious losses when Viet Cong troops outmaneuvered it and sprung their own ambush.

The South Vietnamese paratrooper battalion reported 14 of its men killed and 80 wounded in a savage fight 54 miles northwest of Saigon and three miles from the Cambodian border. American bombers finally drove off the enemy force, but enemy casualties were not known.

About 20 miles to the south, every U.S. air cavalryman in a 40-man platoon was killed or wounded when an estimated 400 troops from the Viet Cong 9th Division ran into the platoon as it was checking the Cambodian border for infiltrators.

COMFORT AFTER ORDEAL . . . Miner William "Buck" Jones is comforted by his wife after his rescue from a Utah mine in which he was entombed eight days. Rescuers,

Miner, After Rescue: 'I Want a Shower'

LARK, Utah (AP) — Tough, grizzled William "Buck" Jones relaxed in a hospital bed today, freed from the tiny cell of rock that held him captive deep in a Utah mountain for eight days.

Jones, 61-year-old father of 11, was brought to safety Sunday night by rescuers who had tunneled tediously through 25 feet of rock to his cubicle.

After an emotional reunion with his big family at the mine entrance, Jones was whisked 20 miles to a Salt Lake City hospital for examination and rest. He looked weary, but obviously was in high spirits.

"I want a shower!" he shouted. "I think I need it." The echo rang down the hospital corridor.

He got a bath instead. Then he shaved himself, had a dinner of ham and eggs and watched a television replay of his rescue.

A hospital spokesman said there would be no immediate interviews.

It was a tearful, joyful scene when the tunnel train carrying Jones to safety reached the surface after a 4½-mile ride from the shaft in which he was trapped by a cave-in March 1.

A cheer went up from more than 300 persons crowding the tunnel opening, including Jones' entire family. His eyes glistened, Mrs. Jones cried, "Buck, I love you!" His children shouted, "Hi, dad!"

"Hello, mother," the weary, bearded Jones said to his wife. Then the two spent a private moment in the covered mine car before fellow miners carried him to an ambulance.

"His kisses were very dusty," said daughter Velma Jones, Mrs. Jones said he was "very tired" but had laughed and talked with her.

A nurse said Jones did not appear to have any cuts or bad bruises, but had "awfully red knees, probably from having to kneel a lot."

Jones' quarters were about 5 feet wide, and only high enough for him to crouch in.

The rescue climaxed days of danger and frustration for workers who risked their own lives in the narrow shaft of the lead, zinc and silver mine.

Officials had feared a new cave-in which could have crushed Jones and taken the lives of his rescuers.

communicator in Mission Control. Roosa reported there was a storm front moving through the area and "they're calling for fairly heavy winds, around 30 knots or so and waves around six to eight feet."

"But we'll make sure the weather is good though, he assured Apollo 9. "I don't think we'll plunk you down in the middle of a front there."

The astronauts can change their landing area by firing their retro rockets earlier or later than planned.

McDivitt reported Apollo 9 had spotted the storm from their high outpost.

The weather watch helped break the monotony of Apollo 9's seventh day in space — in which the astronauts drifted to conserve fuel and dreamed of home.

They had another light schedule of picture taking, navigation checks, an engine firing, and resting.

The major flight plan event was a firing of the main spaceship engine to jockey the craft into a more favorable path for scheduled splashdown Thursday.

The astronauts had completed 97 percent of their flight objectives. The crucial lunar module — LEM — checkout, Schweickart's space walk and the rendezvous of the LEM and command module occurred in the first five days.

Splashdown Site For Apollo 9 May Be Switched

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With stormy weather buffeting their planned Atlantic landing area, the Apollo 9 astronauts received word today they might have to shift their splashdown to calmer seas.

Air Force Cols. James A. McDivitt and David R. Scott and civilian Russell L. Schweickart then turned space age weathermen to report on conditions in the landing zone and over a wide area of the United States.

McDivitt, the Apollo 9 commander, asked about the forecast for Thursday's planned landing southwest of Bermuda. "Hey, Jim, I hate to bring that up," replied astronaut Stuart Roosa, the capsule com-

Graduates Will Get Training as Postal Chiefs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Young college graduates training to be postal executives will have a chance to run some post offices for several months as a result of the new merit system being implemented by the Nixon administration.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blount announced Sunday that professional postal managers will be temporary replacements for acting postmasters who were not given permanent appointments this year.

Blount said that during the four to six months it takes to select permanent postmasters the young management trainees can give leadership to the offices and get operating experience at the same time.

One trainee has been selected already and nine more will be chosen this month. As many as 30 may be put in the field eventually.

Says Government Should Consider Payments Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. John A. Schmittler, former undersecretary of agriculture, says Congress should look into putting a limitation on government payments to farmers.

Schmittler said Sunday that this was his viewpoint during the latter years of the Johnson administration, but he did not express it publicly because it would have been contrary to Democratic policy.

Former Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman strongly opposed any ceilings on direct farm payments.

Schmittler is an agricultural economist now with the Alfred P. Sloan School of Management at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Sell-out Crowd In Kansas City Hears Powell

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A sell-out crowd of nearly 1,000 gathered at the University of Missouri-Kansas City Sunday to hear Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N.Y., give the final lecture in an Afro-American series.

Powell didn't show up. The crowd waited an hour, then left. Officials said the ticket money would be refunded.

Efforts to reach Powell in New York, Washington and Miami failed. His fee would have been $1,750.

side of me, sir, at seeing how these Zionists, these Jews, these Israelis, and whoever in hell they were that were supporting this ad, rub in the fact that they had beat the hell out of the Arabs one year before, said Sirhan, his voice rising.

"Well just before Mistri had handed me the newspaper, I was having in my mind to go to the Rosticrucian meeting. I had that in mind, but that was at 8 o'clock. I had nothing to do. So, Sirhan said, he set off to find out what the paraders 'were up to'."

Another decision. But Sirhan said he failed to notice the parade was for the next day. So, the ad, he said, brought him from Pasadena to Los Angeles—Not far from the Ambassador Hotel where Kennedy, about that time, was returning from his day at the beach.

Sirhan, "driving like a maniac, got lost on unfamiliar routes but finally found Wilshire Boulevard."

Q. Did you have in mind shooting up the Zionist parade? A. Sir, at that time the gun was completely out of my mind. I did not have anything to do with the gun.

Q. What did you finally come to? A. Well, I came — I couldn't find them, so I was almost ready to give up. I spotted a store with a very highly illuminated interior and I thought that it might have something to do with this parade.

The store was headquarters for another candidate in the day's primary. Sirhan said he parked his car, leaving the gun in the back seat, and went into the store.

Then came a crucial turning point, as Sirhan told it.

"These two boys were speaking to themselves that there was a bigger party going at the Ambassador. Curiously, sir, made me go down there."

Q. You didn't know there was to be a Kennedy party there? A. No, I did not.

Sirhan walked into the Ambassador, the length of the lobby and into another political party.

Did he know it was election day? "I learned that, sir, at the Ambassador that night, Sirhan said."

He had at least three gin mixed drinks, talked to some people and felt "quite high." He walked back to his car and got in it "but I couldn't picture myself driving my car at the time in the condition that I was in."

Another decision: "To go down back to the party and sober up, drink some coffee."

Q. Did you pick up your gun? A. I don't remember, sir.

Q. As a result of what has happened, you know you must have picked it up? A. I must have, sir.

Sirhan returned to the hotel and found his coffee.

Soon Robert F. Kennedy came downstairs to accept the plaudits of his followers.

He made a short speech, raised his arms in victory and said

"On to Chicago, where he hoped to get his party's nomination at its national convention. His entourage had made a route change to have him go through a kitchen pantry to a press room before going downstairs to another ballroom and another celebrating crowd."

When Kennedy passed by, Sirhan was waiting.

Sunday and was observing the artillery duel with a group of officers when the shell landed close to him. Others in the group were only slightly injured, but the 50-year-old general died shortly after he was taken to the Ismailia hospital.

Rad was Egypt's second-ranking soldier after the defense minister, Gen. Mohammed Fawzi. President Gamal Abdel Nasser posthumously awarded him Egypt's highest military decoration, the Star of Honor. Rad became chief of staff in the shakeup that followed the purging of the late Field Marshal Abdel Hakim Amer on charges of plotting against Nasser after the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Rad had commanded Arab forces on the Jordanian front during the 1967 hostilities under a joint Egyptian-Jordanian defense agreement.

Cairo said the firing began Saturday after Egyptian forces saw "many preparations on the east bank of the canal that included the setting up of rockets and the gathering of tanks which 'indicated the enemy's intention to commit an act of aggression.'"

The first artillery barrage was preceded by a dogfight between Israeli and Egyptian fighters in which the Egyptian MIG was shot down.

Israel charged Egypt resumed shelling Sunday all along the 103-mile waterway, and said Israeli forces returned the fire. Artillery rumbled for more than three hours. An Egyptian army communique said: "Our forces along the Suez Canal counter-fired and were able to destroy and silence all positions massed by the enemy to fire at civilian quarters of Suez Canal cities."

The firing ended at the behest of U.N. truce observers.

Elsewhere along troubled Middle East borders, Israel said two of its settlements were shelled by Arab gunners, one along the Jordanian cease-fire line and another on the Lebanese border. No casualties or damage were reported.

The Israeli army also said one of its patrols opened fire on an Arab guerrilla unit near the Dead Sea, killed one guerrilla and sent the rest fleeing back into Jordan.

In Amman, a Jordanian army spokesman said an Israeli observation post was destroyed Sunday in a 50-minute exchange of fire. He said Israel started the clash by firing on Jordanian troops in the northern Jordan Valley.

U.N. peace envoy Gunnar V. Jarring arrived in Jerusalem and relayed to Foreign Minister Abba Eban a new Cairo call for Israel's withdrawal from Arab territories captured in the 1967 war. An Israeli spokesman said Eban rejected it because it "did not renew anything regarding the Egyptian position."

Teachers' Salary Panel Organized At Dover-Eyota

DOVER-EYOTA, Minn. (Special) — Salary negotiations at Dover-Eyota school having reached an impasse, teachers asked for an arbitration panel and appointed Rex Domino as their representative.

The board appointed Attorney Robert Dunlap, Rochester, and the two will name a third member if they can't agree on a settlement.

The teachers' last proposal was for a $6,800 base, 4 percent increment, and full single insurance premium, with other minor fringe benefits. This would give each teacher a minimum raise of approximately $1,110, part including the $225 increment per year.

The board's last proposal was for a $6,300 base, $250 increment and some fringe adjustments, meaning a minimum increase of approximately $575 over the present schedule.

Since contracts must be issued by March 20, the panel will meet soon in an attempt to resolve the impasse. Recommendations are non-binding on the board.

The board has accepted a bid of $8,793 for a 60-passenger bus with Thomas body and IHC chassis from Hogland Bus Co. and Beck Implement, with trade-in. Four bus companies bid and the board took the low bid.

Will Number Of Bills Set State Record?

ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota legislators may be heading for a record on the number of bills introduced for one session.

As of last Friday, lawmakers had brought in 2,740 bills, compared with 2,121 on a comparable day in the 1967 session.

Introductions thus far total 1,520 in the House, 1,220 in the Senate, both well ahead of the 1967 pace.

The total for all of last session was 5,015 including 2,655 House bills and 2,360 Senate bills.

At the present pace, bill introductions in the House will top 3,000 and in the Senate would go past 2,600.

More introductions do not complicate the work of the legislature since the vast majority of bills introduced do not pass. But they take up the time of the Senate and House each day as the title of the bill is read and the measure is referred to committee.

Lawmakers have until April 21 to introduce bills at their leisure. After that, the governor must approve all introductions. Half the 1969 session will be over next weekend, marking passage of the 10th week. Lawmakers are scheduled to adjourn May 25.

NO SUMMER CONTEST

OSSEO, Wis. (Special) — No contest will exist in the Town of Osseo April 1 election. Harley Alvestad, incumbent, was nominated for chairman. Other incumbent officers nominated: Supervisors, Thilmer Hoff and Milan Freng; clerk, Harry Amundson, and treasurer, Mrs. Warren Van Tassel. Carl Wik was nominated for assessor when Eddie Stelf did not run again. Amundson has been clerk over 30 years. Mrs. Van Tassel has been treasurer 16 years and Alvestad chairman 14 years.

The drop in patronage is attributed to sale of milk by patrons to other creameries, according to Edward Plentok, chairman of the board.

He said that rising costs of operation and the declining volume are the reasons for considering discontinuation. Representatives of three area creameries will be present with proposals for handling of the milk if the creamery is closed.

Suspect Held In Service Station Holdup

Police in Bay City, Wis., are holding a man as a possible suspect in the holdup of a service station in Winona March 2, Police Chief James McCabe said today.

McCabe said witnesses here would be asked to look at the man's picture to see whether he is the one who held up the Erickson station, 217 Johnson St., and took $160. He held station personnel at bay with a shotgun.

A call from the state Crime Bureau advised local police of the arrest and the possible connection. A man used a similar technique to rob a Red Wing liquor store on the evening prior to the Winona holdup. Descriptions indicate the same individual may have been involved.

A car stolen from the Frank Took residence at 302 E. Howard St., Sunday morning has been recovered in Tomah, Wis., according to McCabe. Two suspects are being held by Wisconsin authorities and the matter is still under investigation.

Robert Benson, 18, 168 Franklin St., was arrested about 3:30 p.m. Sunday in the vicinity of East 3rd and Lafayette streets in the act of ransacking parked cars, according to McCabe. He said police had been tipped off by an unidentified citizen who phoned headquarters. Benson pleaded guilty to a theft charge in municipal court this morning and paid a $35 fine.

Police are investigating the theft of a telephone receiver from the phone booth at East Sarnia Street and Mankato Avenue. The theft was discovered about 5 a.m. Sunday by Patrolmen Charles Todd and Joseph Bronk.

Medicare Alters Extended Care, Hospital Rules

Changes have been made in the Medicare Part A inpatient hospital deductible and the hospital and extended care facility coinsurance amounts.

Effective with benefit periods beginning Jan. 1, 1969, or later, the inpatient hospital deductible will increase from the present $40 to $44.

The coinsurance amount for a day of inpatient hospital service from the 61st through the 90th day is increased from the present $10 to $11 and the coinsurance for a life time reserve day is increased from $20 to $22.

For an extended care facility stay the coinsurance amount for the 21st through the 100th day is increased from the present $5 per day to $5.50 per day.

Victor Bertel, Winona, Social Security district manager, pointed out that when a Medicare patient is in a benefit period that began with a hospital or extended care facility stay before 1969 the $40 deductible still applies. As long as the individual is still in the same benefit period, the related coinsurance amounts also continue to apply for days after 1968.

That is $10 for the 61st through the 90th inpatient hospital day, $20 for a lifetime reserve day and $5 after the 20th day and through the 100th day of an extended care facility stay.

The $50 deductible for the doctors part of Medicare remains the same for 1969. Medical insurance will continue to pay 80 percent of the reasonable charges for covered services after the $50 deductible is met.

RIVER BOILS THROUGH GATES . . . View of the downriver side of Whitman Dam No. 5, shows rising waters escaping through partly raised roller gates. The river flow at 5A today was 27,500 cubic feet per second, about three times the normal rate for this date. Sources at local dams said gates are raised enough to handle increasing flow while maintaining normal pool levels.

They said regulations governing fish and wildlife protection prevent opening of gates completely for maximum draw-down of pools prior to arrival of high water. The Corps of Engineers' position is that there is little or nothing to be gained by such draw-down because heavy flooding, such as that expected this year, will fill pools almost immediately anyway. Copter Searches For Drowned Boy

KELLOGG, Minn. — Rep. Charles W. Miller, Wabasha, and Gov. Harold LeVander gave their assistance over the weekend in trying to find the body of Michael Anthony Schmitz, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Schmitz, who has been missing since March 1.

Search has centered in the Zumbro River, into which he fell.

Rep. Miller contacted the governor, who sent a pilot with helicopter who flew over the river both Saturday and Sunday, from Kellogg to where the Zumbro flows into the Mississippi. Ice on the river is hampering the search.

Divers have assisted. The child's mother said Mayor Victor Holland has been assisting every day, and there have been many local volunteers besides Wabasha County officials.

NFO Upset By Reduction In Supports

CORNING, Iowa (AP) — The National Farmers Organization has voiced opposition to the 25-cent-per-bushel reduction in soybean price support announced by the U.S. department of Agriculture.

"This will mean a loss of $250 to $300 million in net income to farmers," NFO President Oren Lee Staley said Sunday.

Staley said the reduction came "at a time when prices are already too low."

"Methods should have been found to move soybean oil into foreign markets," Staley said.

"Secretary Hardin probably made a decision of compromise between the efforts of many farm groups to maintain the present support level of $2.50 a bushel and the apparent efforts of the Farm Bureau and soybean producers to reduce the price support," he said.

Staley said the Farm Bureau and producers wanted to reduce the support 45 cents to $2.05 per bushel.

Pay Increases To Total $3 Billion For Military

This will be added to a $1.8 billion increase under legislation already enacted.

New scales are intended to put service pay in line with civilian salaries as a step toward reducing the reliance on the draft. While servicemen will be getting more money, they will be losing some special nontaxable allowances.

Rural Taylor Petition Denied

TAYLOR, Wis. (Special) — The school committee of Cooperative Educational Service Agency 11 Thursday night denied a petition by Douglas Curran, rural Taylor, to detach part of his property from Taylor District and attach it to Black River Falls.

The vote was 5 to 1.

Curran owns real estate in both districts but resides in the Taylor district. He believes the Black River Falls school has a better curriculum for preparing students for college and careers.

He also said it is common in the southern part of the state for land to be attached to a school district even though it is not adjacent to it.

If the petition had been approved the parcel would not be adjacent to the Black River Falls district, but would be an isolated island.

Supt. C. A. Mundt opposed the petition. He listed the courses offered at Taylor High School; said correspondence courses are offered where subjects desired are not in the curriculum, and said the Curran farm home, which was included in the petition, is 2 1/2 miles from the Taylor school and approximately 15 miles from the Black River Falls school.

The school committee held a conference with the boards prior to its vote.

The International Copyright Act was passed in 1891.

City Gets Aid For Federal Police Training

City police officers soon will begin courses under a training program set up by the federal Office of Law Enforcement Assistance, according to Police Chief James McCabe.

The chief said today that the city shortly will receive about $600 worth of training aids around which the program is built. The city will be required to assume about $260 of the cost.

FILMS, projector and printed materials are included in the supplies to be obtained. All officers will take the courses under direction of Assistant Police Chief Marvin Meier, McCabe said. Acceptance of the Winona application for program participation was announced today by McCabe and City Manager Carroll J. Fry.

It is the first step by Winona to participate in new federal programs of aid to local law enforcement, Fry said. Winona's department is eligible for such aid because of its being a public law enforcement agency of general jurisdiction with fewer than 100 employees.

THE PROGRAM is authorized by the Officer of Law Enforcement Assistance through the administrative facilities of the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Its overall goal, said Fry, is to provide a self-sufficient modern police training curriculum for 1,000 small and medium-size police departments in the U.S. Personnel of the departments thus will be offered both basic and refresher courses on individual or group level.

'Mama' Trying Potato Pancakes

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK — "Mama Cass," 125 pounds thinner than she used to be, down to 165 from 290, went off her illustrious diet at the Stage Delicatessen when TV director Chuck Barret couldn't fly in from California to meet her—she was so depressed that she started eating potato pancakes.

"That's my excuse for eating," explained Cass Elliott—that's her real name. "You can always find a reason. The war in Vietnam, Biafra, my coat being too long, anything."

Helping herself to more potato pancakes, she said Barret, director of her TV special for ABC, was not her friend ("I wish he was"). She's hoping to blast off 55 more pounds bringing her to a sexy 110.

"A lot of 110-pounders don't have your sex appeal," she said. "Absolutely!" she agreed. "They have an antiseptic quality, they look like they've never been dirty. They look like they don't have scars on their knees from falling off bicycles when they were kids."

"Mama"—who reduced her statistics from 44-55-25 to 32-42-44—and wears a size 18 dress—has been divorced from singer-composer James Hendricks but looks forward to a happy life.

"God hasn't sinned me in any way. I also have talent," she said, and the worshipers of "The Mamas and Papas," with whom she started, agreed. "The thing beautiful girls I know are not deep. They never see beyond their own reflections."

Pushing in the last of the potato pancakes, she said, "I'd like to be the kind of girl, if I walked down the football field, Joe Namath would tackle me." "Mama" graciously accepted introduction to Stage Deli habitués Gene Baylos, the comedian.

"MAMA LOST 125 pounds," we said. "Did she find them?" retorted Baylos, who spares no expense for material.

"No, but she will if she eats potato pancakes," a small voice said.

Joe E. Lewis, who's getting over a severe case of whisky, did his N.Y. Racing Ass'n commercial: "I went to the track yesterday but I met with a costly accident. I got there safely. . . I went to the track to bet on one horse but it wasn't running. He was in the race all right but he wasn't running." Joe E. forgot his famous one. "I follow the horses, and the horses I follow, follow the horses."

Talented Buddy Greco, opening at the Americana Royal Box, had the gal fans swooning and drooling, and spoke of his long hairdo and satin dress shirt with the overhanging sleeves. "I come from South Philly. Imagine what they'd say to me there," he said. . . . Comedian George Carlin, very funny the first show, switched to 3-letter material the second.

MARK TRAIL

By Ed Dodd

Ageless 'Peter Pan' Is 65

LONDON (AP) — Forty years ago a dapper little man with a mustache and a great sense of shyness turned down an invitation to join a children's hospital committee because he said he didn't like committees.

Instead, he said, he would do the hospital "one small favor" and give it the copyright to something he had written about children.

It's one of the most romantic debts in man's history. The hospital is the Great Ormond Street for Sick Children in London.

The donor: Sir James Mat-thew Barrie, Scottish-born Journalist who died in 1937.

The gift: The rights to "Peter Pan."

Great Ormond Street is in fact called the Peter Pan Hospital by more than most.

Ever since that "small gift" in 1929 the money has been rolling in from the children's fantasy of the little boy who never grew up, could fly and teach others to do so with his fairy dust, fight pirates and Indians and command audiences to shout, "We believe in fairies!"

The marvelous tale has been translated into 14 languages. Peter and Wendy and the Darling family with the dog Nana have been performed on stage, screen, ice ballet, and in about every conceivable form known to man.

It has been estimated that 36 million people around the globe see, hear or read about Peter Pan every year.

How much has it meant to Great Ormond Street?

"We are not allowed to say under the terms of Sir James Barrie's will," said the governor, Gordon Piller, who administers the bequests among other multiple duties.

Some facts have eked out, however. As late as 1965, one report estimated that royalties had poured something like $2 million into the hospital.

The steady flow created the million-dollar Barrie wing, X-ray and dental wards and the Peter Pan Ward.

Today Great Ormond Street houses 9,000 in-patients annually, treats 75,000 in the out-patient department, and has links with the Philadelphia Children's Hospital and the big equivalent in Kampala, Uganda.

Recently British court decisions have reaffirmed that the hospital holds the copyright until 1987. That is just 50 years after Barrie's death.

Hospital authorities say this means the institution is now able to "sell" rights for any new film production.

This has been done. A new $5-million production of Peter Pan on film is planned to start in September. It will be done by Hollywood's Universal Studios.

"We have sold it to Universal for $150,000 plus a percentage of the royalties," Piller said.

The star of the film will be Mia Farrow, the umpteenth in a long series of Peter Pans going all the way back to 1904 when the play was written.

Who was Peter Pan?

In fact he was five youngsters, children of Llewellyn Davies, and only one of them was named Peter.

Barrie met them in Kensington Park Gardens, off Hyde Park, and invented the tale. When he moved to Black Lake Cottage in Surrey, where he did most of his writing, he continued the tales, inventing the Indians and the pirates and finally polishing the end product.

The story—even like Great Ormond Street Hospital—is rather like Topsy. It just grew.

Barrie once said about the Davies children and how they got to be Peter Pan: "I made Peter by rubbing the five of you violently together."

How Wendy got into the act came from little Margaret Henley who told "Mr. James once: 'I am your little friendy,' as they met in Kensington Gardens."

She couldn't really pronounce it and said "your little twendy." Wendy evolved.

There where Barrie sat on a park bench stands the famed Peter Pan statue in bronze and children's portrait around it in any kind of decent weather every day.

Oil Leak Triggers Mail Torrent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The leaking oil that spread over hundreds of square miles of California's Santa Barbara channel last month is being rivaled in magnitude by a torrent of citizen mail.

Letters, telegrams and post cards—the total could be as high as 12,000 or more—have poured into Congress, the White House and the Interior Department since last Jan. 28, when a Union Oil Co. well being drilled off Santa Barbara sprang a leak.

When the leak was plugged after 11 days an oil slick covered some 800 square miles of ocean and had drifted onto some 25 miles of beach.

Messages were written by children and adults. Most are from the stricken area, but there are many from other parts of the country.

Most of them call for tighter restrictions or a complete ban on offshore petroleum drilling. But some exceptions criticize government action to halt the leak and prevent others.

"You must be aware how many hundreds of people in Ventura County alone would be affected by cessation of drilling in Santa Barbara channel," said one letter.

A. L. Fox of Carpinteria, Calif., a platform drilling foreman, wrote to President Nixon, "I have 50 men working on the two rigs that have been shut down. . . . These men and men on other platforms are being laid off from work just to please a group of retired beach walkers and bird lovers. . . . What are we going to do if this shutdown continues, when this is our livelihood?"

But these were lonely voices in defense of offshore drilling. Many writers blamed the oil companies for drilling, and the Interior Department for letting them.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel, who took office only five days before the leak began, caught some scattered, but sharp, criticism. Much of it, however, came before Hickel ordered all oil operations in the channel halted. That move seemed to satisfy most later writers.

After Hickel stopped the offshore operations, Mrs. Julia Smolik of Franklin Park, Ill., wrote to thank him.

"I was afraid your critics may be right," she wrote. "However, now I feel more at ease, that you will try to protect this precious land of ours from the greedy oil men."

While the White House declined to allow inspection of its mail, at least some of the letters, relayed to the Interior Department, suggested that Hickel be removed.

Just how many individuals wrote in was hard to tell. No count had been made but at least 3,000 communications have arrived at the offices of the Federal Water Pollution Control Administration, Interior's "dirty water people" as they sometimes call themselves.

The White House reported receiving some 1,300 letters and telegrams while the rough estimates in Congressional offices totaled some 7,750. It was impossible to tell how many of these were separate communications, and how many were duplicates of messages sent to more than one office or agency.

NASON ON EDUCATION

There's More to Life Than College

By LESLIE J. NASON, Ed.D.

University of So. Calif. Economists say investment in education produces a definite increase in national wealth. A return of greater than 10 percent has been estimated.

But in spite of all that, we still have hard core unemployed, ghettos, and unrest. The expenditure of money alone has not solved all the problems. . . .

If we wish to improve the education of all children regardless of race or place of birth, more people must become involved in the process.

To eliminate hard core unemployment we can no longer make education a matter of competition. We must not be satisfied when 50 percent qualify for college even though this provides the nation with the doctors, teachers, lawyers, engineers and scientists it needs.

OUR GOAL must include sufficient education for everyone. Regardless of the effort required, every child must gain sufficient skills to be employable.

With common labor jobs disappearing, there are minimum requirements for reading and writing. This will require more pre-school training, plus more individual attention in the primary grades.

It means that high school students and volunteer adults must work to upgrade the skills of those who need extra help so all will progress together. Only as we carry all children to a position where they can succeed in school and contribute in life will we eliminate strife.

Preparation for college has been given undue importance. The country does need college trained men, others are equally important as persons. The country needs them too.

CERTAINLY COLLEGE is not essential for happiness and some individuals would be happier and more valuable to the nation with post-high school training of a different sort.

The value of education to any individual should be measured by the extent to which he is prepared afterwards to take a happy and successful place in society.

As citizens contribute their time and thoughts to helping children (especially the very young) gain the verbal skills and develop the coordination needed for success in school, so will our country regain the feeling of being one nation.

Bishop Pike Gives Up Jewelry Until 'Invasion' Over

NEW YORK (AP) — Episcopal Bishop James A. Pike says he is eschewing his expensive bishop's jewelry in favor of a simple cross "until the American invasion of Vietnam is over."

Pike, a staff member of the Institute for Democratic Studies at Santa Barbara, Calif., since he resigned as bishop of California, was here to promote a television film and a book.

He said the cross he wears was fashioned by a "hippie priest" from San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury section and has the peace symbol at its base.

Three Cabinet members have snapped up apartments in the huge cooperative and at least one more is thinking about it. Some of the lower-echelon appointees are looking or already are in residence.

It was a sort of unorganized "forward together" movement by people who Washington Post writer Myra MacPherson said "had a herd instinct and the money to indulge it."

Unfortunately, a fluence sometimes attracts the criminal element and the apartment of President Nixon's private secretary, Rose Mary Woods, was victimized by burglars while she was in Europe with the boss last week.

The three Cabinet officers now established in $130,000 to $140,000 suites are Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell, Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, and Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe. The three couples reportedly are in the millionaire bracket.

Secretary of Interior Walter J. Hickel and his wife have looked Watergate over. Protocol Chief Emil (Bus) Mosbacher and his wife are in the hotel section of the complex, paying around $1,400 a month and contemplating the purchase of an apartment.

Son, Jacob Javits, R-N.Y., moved out of still fashionable Georgetown to buy into the apartments.

Although the Democratic National Committee leased a suite in the office building, no people prominent in the Johnson Administration purchased apartments. Democratic Sen. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut is a resident, however.

About half the apartments — there eventually will be 700 units—have sweeping views of the Potomac River. Prices vary — often according to the scenery — from $21,500 for an efficiency or studio to more than $250,000. It costs $3,500 to park a car in the underground lot.

Over 2,000 FIA members, advisers and mothers attended the 24th annual state FIA meeting in St. Paul.

DEAR ABBY:

Can Insults Mean 'I Love You'?

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My son is a C.P.A. and he is going with a college girl. She makes all kinds of mean remarks about the way he looks (he is losing his hair) and the way he walks (he has flat feet).

He, on the other hand, is always telling her she is built like a stick and has a big nose, which is also true. Why, then, do they keep going with each other? If they should marry, what kind of marriage would this be?

They have been going steady for six months. Do you call this love?

MOTHER OF A C. P. A.

Abby

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for five years and have two wonderful children. My problem is a jealous husband.

Before we were married, I had an affair with another man (we were engaged), and I was fool enough to confess it to my future husband. Now I realize it was a big mistake, although at the time, he said he wouldn't hold it against me. Now that we are married every time we have a quarrel he throws it in my face. He is so mean, he's even told his parents!

In addition to accusing me of having an affair with every man I meet, now he calls me filthy names and he's even accused me of having relations with my brothers and uncles!

I've suggested psychiatric help for him, but he says HE is all right, I'm the one who needs help. Divorce is out of the question as it's against our religion and he is a good father to our children. I can't say I really "love" him, Abby, but I am trapped. I've always been a decent wife and haven't even looked at another man since my marriage, and don't intend to. What is your advice?

DEAR TRAPPED: Your husband is sick. And any woman who subjects herself to the kind of abuse your husband dishes out is asking for a nervous breakdown. Talk to your clergyman, and perhaps together you can persuade your husband to accept some counseling. Tell him if he doesn't try to help himself, you'll be forced to take the children and leave him because you've had about as much punishment as you can stand. I bet he listens!

DEAR ABBY: This is for "FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT" who suggested that instead of coffeeclatching with the neighbors all day, we housewives should do our grocery shopping in the early afternoon so as not to crowd the "working wives."

I haven't had a cup of coffee with my neighbors in years. They are all out chasing their "GOD"—the Almighty dollar. Sure, I market in the evening. That's when the paper comes and I can see what's on sale, and my husband can stay home with the younger children.

While I'm there, I look into your carts, and see all the "Ready-Mix" and "Jiffy-Fix" pre-frozen slop you feed your family. How long has it been since your husband had an honest-to-goodness homecooked meal?

Yes, I'm that lazy, lowly housewife who taught your daughter how to knit in 4-H. I helped her earn her merit badges in Girl Scouts, too. And I had six of your boys in my Cub Scout Den, and if I remember correctly you were too busy to even come to the Christmas play the kids put on for their parents. I've driven your kids to baseball practice because "Mom's gone." And your kids always came to MY house because you didn't want your nice new home messed up.

So, why don't YOU do your shopping on your day off and stay out of MY way?

Safeguarding Your Teen-ager Against Drugs

(EDITOR'S NOTE: ALTON BLAKESLEE (right) prize winning science writer for The Associated Press, spent months interviewing authorities in many fields to obtain information for his important new series on "Safeguarding Your Teen-ager Against Drugs." An expanded version of the series, with added material, appears as a pamphlet and is must reading for both young people and parents. The use — and abuse — of drugs that affect human minds is spreading across the country like smog.

Young Americans by the hundreds of thousands, perhaps by the millions, are tasting, experimenting or going still further with marijuana, with LSD, with the uppies and downies of pep pills and sedatives, with Speed, and even in some cases with heroin.

By the millions, parents are increasingly puzzled, worried, or even downright panicky. Most disturbing to them, marijuana or "pot" especially is becoming popular among junior high and high school students.

"My seven-year-old daughter can spell marijuana; I never heard of it until I was in college," says one 37-year-old father.

At high schools and colleges, arrests for possession of marijuana and other drugs are increasing. Simple possession of marijuana is a felony punishable by jail terms of two to ten years or more.

Drug use is unquestionably becoming a way of life for some young people — and for an untold number of adults also.

EIGHT VITAL QUESTIONS

THIS SERIES of stories, based on interviews with dozens of authorities across the country, deals with questions such as these that confront parents and young people as well:

What can or should parents do to steer their children away from using mind-affecting drugs?

How much of the complete story about various drugs do young people and children know?

How can you tell if someone is smoking marijuana, or taking LSD or other drugs?

Why did the great turn-on with drugs come along now?

What benefits do drug users say they find? What harms may various drugs cause?

Just what are all these drugs, new and old?

What should parents do if teen-agers or college students become dependent on drugs?

What is the argument all about over legalization of marijuana, or reducing the penalties for possessing it?

There are of course no simple, pat answers to these and other questions.

WHAT PARENTS CAN DO

BUT knowledgeable authorities in medicine, psychiatry, education, drug research, and law enforcement do offer numerous guidelines, and advice on specific things you can do.

These are spelled out in detail in later stories in this series.

For a majority of young people, observers remark, the counter with mind-affecting drugs appears as a flirtation, a one time or once-in-a-while event, with users sure they can take it or leave it.

But some authorities say such experimentation can amount to drug roulette — that some young people particularly susceptible to various drugs, can become dependent, and get hurt, badly hurt, from what they intended as a rather innocent adventure.

The "drug scene" is part of a larger one. For the truth is that American society is heavily a pill society. Its people for years have been swallowing billions of pills and capsules, including tranquilizers.

American society tolerates alcohol and nicotine, both of which technically are drugs, and millions of people abuse both of them. It has long had a corps of addicts hooked on heroin or opium, but fewer now than 30 or 40 years ago.

PILLS FOR EVERYBODY

MANY AMONG a huge variety of drugs are taken legitimately, prescribed for medical benefits. But there is also a great black market among some potent drugs, and illegal manufacture or importation.

Each year, says the Food and Drug Administration, billions of sedative and pep pills are diverted to illegal use and ultimate misuse. That means enough pills or tablets per person per year to "keep everyone in the United States awake and jumping for a week, and enough barbiturates to keep them in a stupor for a week."

No one knows what the overuse of potent drugs of many kinds is doing to that priceless possession, the human brain, how much it is constituting a brain drain of intelligence and skills.

The newer element in the nation's drug problem is the rather sudden spread of drugs that induce fantasies or hallucinations, or that "expand the mind."

This drug problem is here. It is now. It is big. It is apparently growing bigger.

And it has set loose a storm of emotion that confuses the issues, and that blocks effective answers.

FEW GUIDELINES

PART OF THE problem is "a tyranny of opinion, attitude and among young people is not known, although estimates are given in the next article.

Many parents are baffled or alarmed because the drug scene is something totally outside any of their own personal experience. Many cannot help wondering whether their children will remain immune to the appeal of present drugs, or to a raft of new drugs which experts predict will inevitably come along.

Many parents are far more alarmed, some experts say, than they really need be.

But practically all agree that parents are not likely to get very far unless they know the real facts about different drugs. Only with knowledge can they give sound counsel.

Youngsters and students generally know a good deal more than parents about mind-influencing drugs. But they may also tend to believe what they choose on a controversial subject. And they have tended to learn about drugs from their own companions — not all of them well or fully informed.

Parents are wrong, for example, if they argue that marijuana is a "narcotic" or that it is physically addictive. The reasons why it is not, and why parents could honestly have been misled into thinking it is, are explained later.

STRAIGHT ANSWERS NEEDED

THE POINT that authorities make here is that parents get into trouble if they DO insist marijuana is a narcotic, or if they lump all drugs together as being equally bad.

"Once the youngster can prove the parent is wrong about a big point, he very likely takes the position — 'Now I can't believe anything you say at all,'" says one psychiatrist.

"Any drug education which is not scrupulously honest will fall with the kids," a psychologist adds. "Once you exaggerate, you lose them."

Three Nations Wonder If Return Best

NAHA, Okinawa (U) — Three Far Eastern nations are questioning the wisdom of proposals that the United States turn back to Japan the control of Okinawa and the other Ryukyu Islands. The doubters are South Korea, Nationalist China and Thailand.

Nationalist China and Thailand signatories of the Japanese peace treaty, which originally empowered the United States to administer the Ryukyus. They question the legality of giving Okinawa back to Japan as a private arrangement between the Japanese and the Americans, since the governments of 60 nations participated in approving the peace treaty.

Thailand's foreign minister, Thanat Khoman, said recently that if Japan wants to replace the United States in the Ryukyus it might be prepared to pick up the military burdens as well as the U.S. administrative chores on Okinawa.

If Japan wants the United States out of the Ryukyus then Japan should be prepared to finance and maintain its own defense umbrella, the Thai minister declared.

The South Korean foreign minister, Lee Ton-won, told the Japanese his nation cannot remain indifferent to any move which would deprive South Korea of the protection that the American military presence on Okinawa provides.

A spokesman for the Formosa government said the return of Okinawa would impair the security system of the entire Far East and create a security threat to the region's free nations.

Formosa is within sight of the southern Ryukyu islands, so a weak or unfriendly Okinawa could be a direct military threat to the Nationalist Chinese.

Feel France Has Enough Gold to Fight Money Crisis

BASEL, Switzerland (AP) — Western Europe's central bankers decided Sunday the French franc's new troubles don't require international action.

After their regular monthly meeting, several of the bankers said the French government has enough gold to cope with the current flow of money beyond its borders.

They also said France has not asked for help under emergency arrangements the bankers made last month to help countries with money troubles.

However, the present uncertainty about the franc will not be resolved until the French government and the country's labor unions settle their differences over wages. The unions have called a 24-hour general strike Tuesday.

The unions are seeking a 12 per cent wage increase. The government in resisting such a large boost would make French exports so expensive the value of the franc would have to be lowered so French business could compete in international markets.

Devaluation of the franc might force Britain and the United States to cut the value of their currencies. But in a more serious money crisis last fall President Charles de Gaulle refused to devalue.

Unless the labor situation deteriorates to the point of an extended general strike, as it did last May, there is no reason to believe De Gaulle will consider devaluation.

Anticipation of devaluation cost French national reserves

$89.7 million in February as Frenchmen bought other currencies abroad for safety. The losses of gold and foreign currency were reported accelerating this month, but the De Gaulle government still has billions to draw on, including a special fund set up by the central bankers last fall. It hasn't been touched.

A record-breaking rise in the price of gold on the free market last week started devaluation speculation. The central bankers said Sunday the significance of the gold rush was exaggerated by the newspapers.

The market price for gold went up to $48.31 an ounce in Paris Friday. The run was caused not only by fears about the franc, but by the decision of South Africa, the Western world's largest gold producer, not to sell any large part of its stocks on the free market.

The Nixon administration, which has remained committed to the official price of gold at $35, would like to see South Africa sell and force the free market price down. This would relieve devaluation pressures in Britain and the United States.

The central bankers do not speak for their governments, but their advice is important when government leaders make fiscal policy.

Pure Milk Association to Talk Merger

CHICAGO (AP) — The Pure Milk Association has amended its bylaws to enter into merger talks with other producer cooperatives.

PMA represents about 10,000 dairy farmers in Wisconsin, Illinois, Michigan and Indiana. It said the talks, called by America's Dairyland Cooperative, will be held March 24 in Madison, Wis., for cooperatives interested in increasing the marketing efficiency and bargaining power for dairy farmers.

The action was taken by PMA over the weekend at its annual meeting in Chicago.

"Dairy farmers of this part of the Midwest still have a long way to go to achieve effective marketing and pricing," said A. L. McWilliams, PMA general manager.

"It is particularly disconcerting to see co-ops in other areas of the country with far less at stake in the dairy business merging in large regional associations with market coordination, political sophistication and financial strength greater than ours," McWilliams said.

New Democratic Coalition Aims at Winning Control

MADISON, Wis. (U) — The New Democratic Coalition, representing dissidents who want to reform their party, have announced a campaign to win control of key offices in Wisconsin's Democratic organization.

The decision to try to elect coalition members to high party office was approved Sunday at a meeting of about 160 coalition members from all 10 of Wisconsin's congressional districts.

Former Lt. Gov. Patrick J. Lucey said the coalition can expect considerable opposition from party regulars, but said the degree of friction between party insiders and the coalition should vary from county to county.

THERE ARE coalition organizations in more than 30 states. The New Democratic Coalition was organized after the 1968 Democratic National Convention in Chicago by those who had supported the presidential bids of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, U. Minn., and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Donald O. Peterson of Eau Claire, head of the state's delegation to the convention, was one of the group's key organizers.

The Wisconsin branch has been busy organizing its strength, particularly in Milwaukee County.

Lucey likened the party-office campaign to efforts by liberal

Democrats in the 1940s to reform the state Democratic party after the death of the Progressive party.

Party regulars, he said, are already concerned about the growth of the New Democratic Coalition, and some are more interested in maintaining the status quo than in trying to work with the new movement.

Lucey said he is "perplexed at the attitude of regular Democrats who view the coalition with alarm. They are frightened to death."

Lucey, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for governor in 1966 and considered a possible candidate again in 1970, predicted the coalition would bring new blood into the party.

But he declined to suggest how closely the coalition should try to work with the existing party structure.

BESIDES deciding to formally organize a campaign for taking control of important party posts, the state coalition also adopted resolutions on current social topics.

One of the resolutions calls for general support of college students who want their schools to set up courses in Negro curriculum.

Another resolution asked government agencies, including the FBI and the Wisconsin legislature, to "cease all investigations with the political beliefs and affiliations of dissidents."

The state legislature recently set up a Republican-dominated committee to study causes of student disturbances at state universities.

Besides agreeing with attempts to get Negro courses at the college level, the coalition endorsed programs for employment of Negro teachers in underprivileged municipal neighborhoods.

The meeting also urged Congress to reject plans by Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird to begin work on a costly antimissile system.

Ted Kinnaman of Janesville, a veteran of the 1968 "dump Johnson" movement, was chosen chairman of the state coalition.

CHARLES Anderson of Madison was elected vice chairman. Mrs. Franklin Utech of Oshkosh, recording secretary, Miss Justine Dakin of Madison corresponding secretary, and Jack Nikolay of Abbottsford treasurer.

Most of the new coalition officers figured in the McCarthy presidential campaign.

Anderson is a Madison officer of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

City Streets Deserve Better Names

It seems to us as though it's time the city did something to reform its archaic system of naming streets. This, of course, isn't one of the city's greatest problems but neither is it a very tough one. For this reason, we think a satisfactory answer can be found rather easily.

Up to now the problem has been mostly that of indifference or inattention. A great many streets have been given names that are noteworthy only for a total lack of imaginative thought or originality.

Some streets seem to have acquired names by default. Thus, we had an Airport Drive because it led to Max Conrad Field. Some sense of appropriateness ultimately arose in the City Council and Airport Drive was divided into equal parts named for the late Roy Patneude and William A. Galewski — whose memories, incidentally, well deserve preservation for their outstanding public service.

A belated proposal to banish the equally lackluster name of Industrial Park Road in favor of something better was opposed on the valid grounds that this would inflict considerable expense on several firms whose advertising literature, stationery, office forms and legal documents already bore the original address. And so that dull gray name remains on the city's maps.

When new subdivisions are platted, developers apply names of their own choice to new streets. This practice encourages creativity and a departure from humdrum titles but still should be subject to some review since the city has to live with them forever after, unless changes are made.

Four separate city streets employ the word "Lake" in their names. A change, at this late date, could hardly be recommended. But some obviously unnecessary duplication could have been avoided had there been a consistent city policy in effect when these names were coined.

Probably the most conspicuous example of ambiguity — and one that could cause real problems — is that of the two streets bearing the same official name of Service Drive. Through the same sort of woolgathering neglect that allowed other oddities to become accepted, these streets simply became known by their descriptive titles. No effort was made to distinguish between the street north of Highway 61 and that south of the highway.

Today, businesses on both sides of the 4-lane highway have Service Drive addresses. Here, it seems, there is need for a change.

As we say, it's not the worst difficulty that confronts us. But it can get worse if allowed to do so. A city that is beginning to see quickening growth and new expansive tendencies ought to dispose of a minor but irritating idiosyncrasy such as this.

Our own suggestion would be to make the City Planning Commission responsible for city street names henceforth. This responsibility would include finding suitable names — and inviting public participation in the process — for new streets laid out by the city and review of those proposed by developers.

When thou fastest, anoint thine head, and wash thy face.—Matthew 6:17.

Try and Stop Me

The late Henry Luce, creator of one of the most powerful magazine empires in history, had his fair share of faults, but dodging issues definitely was not one of them. If you are fed up with weaseling editors and commentators who are continually apologizing for what's wrong with America, and ignoring all the things that make our country great, you will appreciate Luce's answer to a critic who damned him for his prejudices: "I am a Protestant, a Republican, and a free enterpriser, which means I am biased in favor of God, Eisenhower, and the stockholders of Time, Incorporated — and if anyone who objects doesn't know this by now, why the hell are they still buying the magazine?"

The great Fred Allen, one of the very few radio and TV stars who wrote his own material, claimed he had good cause to remember both the hottest and the coldest days he ever experienced in New York City. On the hottest day, said Fred, he saw a policeman chasing a burglar — and they both were walking. On the coldest day, he caught a big bootlegger pouring alcohol into his booze to keep it from freezing.

A WORD EDGEWISE

A Vote for Direct Election

By JOHN P. ROCHE

A number of readers have written me notes — particularly in connection with my remarks about ROTC — accusing me of confusing my autobiography with reality. (I appreciate this correspondence and regret that my lack of a secretary makes it hard for me to reply promptly.) I cheerfully plead guilty to this charge, but I want to point out in extenuation that I invariably admit my highly personal perspective. President Nixon, for example, has submitted a proposal for electoral college reform to the Congress which states everything but the interesting coincidence that, had this proportional method of assigning electoral votes been in effect, he would have beaten John Kennedy in 1960!

Because there is so much confusion on the subject, let us examine the problem of electing a President. For opens it ought to be stated flatly — for the benefit of liberals and conservatives alike — that there is no system which will guarantee the choice of the "right" man. The best we can hope for is a mechanism that will most precisely reflect the will of the American people, or (even more narrowly) that segment of the electorate which votes. According to Dr. Gallup, 48 million voters did not participate in the 1968 election.

THERE ARE TWO main schools of thought among reformers. One group, which includes President Nixon, would keep the electoral vote though not necessarily the college but divide the votes between candidates either by congressional districts (with two at-large) or on a statewide basis. This would end the practice of giving a state's total electoral vote to the winner, no matter how tight his margin. Interestingly enough, the adoption of the district system would reinstate the method used in Virginia (and, with a further wrinkle involving the legislature, in Massachusetts) in the first three presidential elections. Contrary to superstition, there is no provision in the Constitution giving all the votes to the winner; this is a matter of state law.

The alternative proposal involves the abolition of the electoral votes as well as the college and direct election of the President. To insure against fragmentation, most proponents of direct election advocate a runoff between the top two candidates if no one receives a minimum of 40 percent of the votes cast. Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana has been the leading spokesman of direct election in the Senate for years with great persuasiveness and is now holding hearings on the subject.

I favor direct election (and want it noted that my candidate would have lost in 1968 no matter which system was operating) and polls indicate that the American people overwhelmingly favor reform of some sort. But in political terms, Bayh and his allies have a real uphill fight, especially since some of the liberals in Congress, who have been giving him public support, are beginning to have serious second thoughts about the consequences of change. When it comes to rising above principles, liberals are no worse than conservatives.

TWO THINGS IN particular are bothering liberals. First, the impact on the nominating conventions of straight popular election. As it now stands, the fact that all of New York's, or California's, electoral vote will go to the winner gives these states enormous clout in nominating presidential candidates. But in 1968 New York gave Humphrey only 50.2 percent, and Nixon got 49.2 in California — hardly spectacular victories. With electoral votes out, neither state would merit much concern. Indeed, Indiana, which gave Nixon a popular margin of 258,000 and Massachusetts, which put Humphrey over by an incredible 696,000, become the centers of attention. It is hardly necessary to add that neither Indiana nor Massachusetts is a big "minority state."

This leads to the second problem worrying minority-oriented liberals. In a straight popular vote race they would be hurt by the high levels of non-participation among their constituents. Without going into statistical detail, it is safe to say that the vast majority of the 48 million who did not vote in 1968 were nominal Democrats — that is, they would have supported Humphrey if they had bothered to register and vote. To put it graphically, Nixon's margins in Indiana and North Carolina wiped out Humphrey's edge in New York. But HHH got New York's 43 electoral votes while Nixon got 26 from Indiana and North Carolina.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

High-Handed Publisher Gets Ambassador Post

By DREW PEARSON
WASHINGTON — The career of Walter H. Annenberg, new ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to the Court of St. James, has been extraordinary for his generosity to certain charities, high-handedness in exercising the prerogatives of his profession, narrow-mindedness in the treatment of his fellowmen.

He had, however, been consistently, almost vehemently, faithful to the Republican party, though not always to Richard Nixon. Under the usual political rule of thumb, reward goes to those who stand up to be counted early. Publisher Annenberg did not stand up early.

When he arrived in Miami Beach for the GOP convention last August, he was for Ronald Reagan of California and had promoted Reagan for some time.

On one occasion he invited Reagan to Philadelphia to attend a swank gathering at the Barclay Hotel to meet Tom McCabe, the Scott Tissue king, and Phil Sharples, former head of Sharples Cream Separators, both big bankrollers for the Republican party.

ANNENBERG TRIED to keep the meeting off the record but his city editor, Bob Holland, heard about it over the radio and assigned reporter Bob Collins to cover for the Inquirer. But publisher Annenberg objected, forbade his own reporter to interview Reagan at the airport. He could wait and see him briefly in the hotel lobby, it was stipulated.

After the hotel reception, however, Reagan gave reporter Collins the brush-off on the excuse that he had already been interviewed at the airport — by the Inquirer's rival, the Bulletin.

On another occasion, Gov. Reagan was attending a society affair at Philadelphia's Convention Hall. Inquirer reporter Al Klemke had been assigned to cover the event, which was picketed by Philadelphia welfare recipients. Klemke wrote a human interest story comparing the limousines, the minks and dinner jackets with the ragged recipients of welfare picketing outside.

Publisher Annenberg was furious. He demanded of managing editor John Gillen that he send whoever wrote the story to see him. Gillen stood by his staff, did not reveal Klemke's name.

This took courage, since the publisher of the Inquirer does not have a high opinion of the newspaper profession which has given him so much power. Once he asked Fred Stapleford, former advertising manager of the Inquirer, now publisher of This Week, what he would most like to do if he had his choice of jobs in the literary field. Stapleford replied that he would rather be the editor of the Inquirer.

"I buy editors a dime a dozen," Annenberg snorted.

THE ambassador's high-handed tactics contributed in part to one of the worst scandals of modern journalism, when reporter Harry Karafin was convicted of shaking down Philadelphia business firms on the threat of exposing them in the Inquirer.

While Annenberg and the Inquirer were absolved from any complicity, Karafin could not have operated successfully for 10 years — from 1958 — had not the publisher established a reputation for ruthless, hatchet-man journalism. "I'm Annenberg's hatchet man," Karafin used to boast. And no one dared call up Annenberg to challenge this because they believed it to be true.

As a result, such firms as the First Pennsylvania Banking and Trust Company paid Karafin allegedly to keep the Inquirer quiet about its business practices, the bank paying $1,000 a month.

It knew that Annenberg kept a "hate" list. Among those on the list was Ralph Nader, courageous consumers' champion. When columnist Rose DeWolf mentioned Nader favorably, the column was killed. For this and other reasons Miss DeWolf resigned to join the Bulletin.

When Annenberg got snubbed by Nubar Gulbenkian, the Iranian oil magnate, at a social function while vacationing in France, he ordered his staff to do a job on Gulbenkian. "Ruffie up his feathers," was the order. Bill Collins was assigned to interview Gulbenkian's ex-butler, while Arthur Louis was assigned to call the oil magnate long distance to ask how much he paid in income taxes.

Annenberg has been sensitive on this subject ever since his father was jailed for tax cheating.

GULBENKIAN'S reply to reporter Louis was: "Send me tear sheets of what you write. I think nasty little men are funny when they pant and snort."

After the Karafin blackmail conviction, Annenberg made scapegoats of several of his top editors by firing them. Among them were Morris Litman, executive city editor for 30 years; and Phil Schaeffer, who as city editor had been doing a constructive job of improving the newspaper's local coverage. He had assigned specialists to cover transportation, medicine, science, and poverty in Philadelphia.

The British nobility will find the new ambassador a cautious social climber. When planning a trip to Mexico in 1967, Annenberg received an invitation from industrialist Bruno Pagliai and his wife, Merle Oberon, who have frequently been White House guests.

Annenberg called his then Washington chief of bureau, Joe Goulden, who had lived in Mexico, to ask him: "How does he stand in Mexico. Would it be all right to see him?"

Goulden and Pagliai had started as an Italian immigrant waiter in Tijuana but was now one of the biggest men in Mexico.

"Oh, maybe I'll see him then," commented the man who will now become American ambassador to the Court of St. James.

ON THE RIGHT

Lowering the Voting Age

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY Jr.

During the presidential campaign, Mr. Nixon made an unfortunate commitment to lower the voting age to 18. Now he has asked the Attorney General to advise him whether this ought to be done by a Constitutional amendment, so as to lower the age uniformly for all federal elections, or whether the President should simply encourage the individual states to reform their own laws, as Nelson Rockefeller has been urging the legislature in Albany to lower the voting age. At first glance one would hope that Mr. Mitchell will make the second recommendation or that if he makes the first, Congress will promptly dis- obey him.

Lowering the voting age has become something of a cause among very young people, who believe that as things now stand they are denied effective participation in democracy. That is of course true — although participation in a democracy is not necessarily the highest value, the higher value being freedom. At some colleges and universities which are governed by students, the student is less free than at some which are governed by faculty and administration. It is the kind of government one has, rather than who it is that midwives it, that matters; and this surely has a bearing on the question of whether to lower the voting age.

TO BEGIN with the voting age is arbitrary. If it is contended that nowadays youth are mature at age 21 in the relevant sense in which they were not mature at 21 when the Constitution was written, then the struggle is over the question — is that true or is that not true? There are those who believe that the contrary is true. That 200 years ago young men and women had much earlier than today to take active responsibilities. They married, bore children, earned their living, protected their homes, participated in civic enterprises, and generally exposed themselves to the consequences of government the form of which they were accordingly better qualified to express opinions on.

Such in any case is the counter- contention, and one wonders whether Mr. Mitchell will give a moment's thought to that particular question or whether, more likely, he will be asked to weigh the political consequences of any action publicly advocated by Mr. Nixon. In any case, the question of whether youth are more or less mature than they were in previous centuries is moot, and the only sensible way to retreat from the arbitrary age of 21 is to specify that anyone may vote at any age upon passing a rudimentary examination.

Ah, but that, of all measures the most suitable for measuring the claims of youth, is least likely to satisfy them. The trouble with examinations is that some people fail them. And in democracies, people must not fail examinations — that hurts people, who then proceed to hurt the politicians. And anyway, it is also common knowledge that some of the people who are first-rate at passing examinations shouldn't be allowed to vote for a kindergarten teacher. Imagine a society governed by people selected by Susan Sontag!

What other claims might be called reasonable? That if someone is old enough to die in Vietnam he is old enough to vote? But of course it does not follow. He is after all old enough at age 15 to breed children, which does not make him old enough to be a father. After all, would the reverse apply — that when a man becomes too old to fight for his country, he becomes too old to vote for it? Bad logic, all the way around. What, then, are we left with?

AS USUAL, the political question. It is generally recorded by political scientists that newly enfranchised voters are, for a period of time, grateful to the party that enfranchised them. The Whigs made a big thing of it during the 19th century in England, as did the Republicans and then the Democrats here in vying for the Negro vote.

Nixon is on the spot because he made the commitment, specifically, while cam-

Asks About Electrolysis For Hair

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
(First of two articles)

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How effective is home electrolysis treatment, the type you order by mail? Professional electrolysis treatments are so expensive.

I am 23 and plagued with unwanted coarse hair on the face and around the breast. How can I get rid of it? — A.W.

Superfluous hair is usually a familial matter. People of some nationalities are more subject to it; it also runs in families.

Despite much talk about "glands" it is rarely a glandular matter, and medicine will not correct it. (In true glandular cases, requiring hormone treatment, there will be other symptoms: Menstrual abnormality, obesity, masculinization, etc.)

So that leaves physical methods as the only effective recourse: Shaving, chemicals (depilatory creams or liquids which dissolve the hair), cutting the hairs off, plucking, abrasion (as with pumice, simply wearing the hairs down), bleaching to make them less noticeable, and electrolysis.

Of all of these, electrolysis is the only method which can permanently remove hair, by destroying the root so hair cannot regrow. With all of the other methods, including plucking, the root remains, and a new hair grows.

There are enough ins and outs concerning electrolysis that I will not try to go into them today, but will discuss the pros and cons tomorrow.

As to the other methods, they are for the most part obvious enough. On the breasts, clipping the hairs with small scissors is the safest method; shaving, plucking, depilatories, or abrasion are too painful and can cause skin irritation.

On the face, shaving is a practical answer. Contrary to common belief, shaving does not cause an increase in growth and does not cause the hairs to become heavier and darker.

As proof of this, there are various sects that do not believe in shaving, yet the men have heavy, bushy black beards. Therefore, if shaving is the simplest method of removing hair, go ahead. (This also answers the question, asked many times, as to whether it is all right for girls to shave their legs. It is.)

So choose whichever method suits you. Tomorrow I'll discuss the pitfalls and the advantages of hair removal by electrolysis.

Dear Sir: Can cancer of the stomach and colon be detected by X-rays? — Mrs. S. H.

Many cases are detected that way, but not necessarily in very early stages.

paing. Although it is perfectly honorable, upon the consideration of additional evidence, to change one's mind, it is unlikely that Nixon will change his on the general proposition. So that although Mitchell would be wiser to recommend that the matter be left to the states, he would probably be more prudent in recommending a Constitutional convention. Because the former course of action might actually move some states, whereas the latter would almost certainly fail of passage.

State Humane Society Protests Fox Hunt

EDEN VALLEY, Minn. (AP) — With the Minnesota branch of the national Humane Society baying at its heels, the Eden Valley Chamber of Commerce staged a foxhunt with snowmobiles Sunday.

About 400 enthusiastic spectators paid a dollar each and at least another 100 curiosity seekers lined the road next to Brown's Lake to watch the spectacle.

One fox was set free in the middle of the lake in each of 10 events and 15 to 25 snowmobilers gunned their machines in hot pursuit of the beast.

The contestants were either to net the fox or pick him up with their hands. Snowmobilers were warned that a contestant would be disqualified if he struck the animal with his machine.

The precaution to safeguard the fox came after Conservation Commissioner Jarle Leirfallom warned Saturday that chasing fox with snowmobiles was in violation of state law, and said that arrests would be made at the hunt.

Conservation officials at the hunt said hunters went out of their way to avoid hitting the animals. None of the fox were injured and no arrests were made, a Conservation Department spokesman said.

But the Humane Society thinks differently.

Dave Davis, president of the state branch of the society, said he intends to make formal charges against the sponsors of the hunt.

"I had the word of Gov. LeVander that the Conservation Department would stop the hunt," Davis said. "I don't know what happened, but I intend to file formal charges with the governor after I check with our legal sources in Washington."

Davis said the hunt was inhumane even though none of the fox were physically injured. "It is unduly cruel to put a defenseless animal on a lake and chase him with 25 large machines. Needless to say, the fox must be horribly scared."

Eden Valley residents didn't appreciate the Humane Society's interest in their event. Several persons told Davis they thought he had "no business in our town," and a group of youngsters carried a sign reading "Humanists Go Home."

Fox hunting isn't a new sport in the area; it has been going on for some time.

Robert Schoenecker, a member of the local sportsmen's club, said fox were harmful to men because they kill pheasants.

"A group of us killed over 200 of them with our snowmobiles in a six-mile radius of Eden Valley," Schoenecker said. "We hit and ran over several with our snowmobiles and ran others up a tree and killed them later."

George Ruhland, another member of the sportsmen's club, defended Sunday's foxhunt as a participant and organizer.

"I see nothing at all wrong in merely chasing fox, but I do believe in preventing cruelty to animals," Ruhland said. "We just don't believe that we are being cruel to the fox."

Bucher to Be Quizzed for Third Time

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — For the third time, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher goes before a Navy court of inquiry today for questioning about the capture of his intelligence ship, the USS Pueblo, and imprisonment of his men in North Korea.

E. Miles Harvey, Bucher's attorney, also summoned Vice Adm. J. Victor Smith, who helped negotiate the release of Bucher and his 81 men just before Christmas. Smith was a U.N. negotiator on the Korean Armistice Commission.

The calling of witnesses by Bucher's attorney marked the last phase of the inquiry, in its eighth week.

Bucher took up the first week with a detailed narrative of his capture by North Korean gunboats in January 1968 off the coast of Wonsan. He also gave a tearful account of how the North Koreans tortured him.

He took the stand again after the court had finished questioning the crew on the capture. Bucher replied to queries about apparent contradictions between his account and testimony of the crew.

Harvey summoned Cmdr. Peter F. Block to testify Tuesday. Block was Bucher's commanding officer when he served on the submarine Ronquil.

Toy Rocket Launcher Hurts Small Astronaut

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — That toy rocket launcher did little damage to 8-year-old Rusty Schweickart's eye. He returned home Sunday after a brief visit to a Houston doctor.

Schweickart, son of Apollo 9 Astronaut Russell L. Schweickart, scratched his eye with the launcher, a prize in a breakfast food box.

"I feel fine. It really doesn't hurt," he protested as he was whisked off to the doctor.

Except for the incident, Sunday was quiet for the Apollo 9 families.

Pat McDivitt and her four children attended a Roman Catholic Mass at the Ellington Air Force Base chapel. The Mass was offered for the Apollo 9 crew.

Ann Scott heard a special prayer for the astronauts during services at St. Christopher's Episcopal church in nearby League City.

Most Offices Get 2 Nominations in Waumandee Town

WAUMANDEE, Wis. (Special) — Two candidates were nominated for all offices in the Town of Waumandee last week except for the clerk, Mrs. Al Slabe Jr., and treasurer, Warren Korte, both incumbents.

Nominated for chairman were William Wojcik, incumbent, and Albert Benning; for assessor, Michael Hogan, incumbent, and Rudy Hesch, first supervisor, Arvin Reghin, incumbent, and Charles Rippley; second supervisor, Albert Benning, incumbent, and William Sendelbach, and constable, Maynard Olson and Julius Averback.

Albert Benning for chairman, Rudy Hesch for assessor, William Sendelbach for supervisor and Julius Averback for constable withdrew by the deadline and will not appear on the ballot.

Claim Marooned Mustangs Are Gaining Strength

MINDEN, Nev. (AP) — Seventy wild horses marooned in deep snow after fleeing poachers "are definitely picking up strength" after twice-weekly hay drops since Feb. 26, says a sponsor of the effort.

The mustangs are stranded on a ridge of the 9,000-foot Pine Nut Mountains east of Lake Tahoe. The snow is as deep as 15 feet, and the horses were starving until the Pine Nut Mustang Association was formed.

"We're going to continue to drop hay until the animals can return to their own habitat under their own strength," said Ed Court, owner of a helicopter service who is paying for the air operation, worth $170 an hour.

"If we take them down now, they would become prey to poachers who take them in and sell them for the meat that is used for dog food."

Two pilots brave 70-mile-an-hour winds and "it's extremely dangerous," Court said Sunday.

HARRIS SURVEY

First 6 Weeks Bring Nixon High Grades

By LOUIS HARRIS

By over 2 to 1, the American people are giving President Nixon relatively high marks on the way he has handled his first six weeks in office. Specifically, 57 percent give him a positive overall job rating, which is close to the 61 percent mark the public expected of him before he took office. The 23 percent who rate him negatively is somewhat below the 30 percent who anticipated he might not make good as President. However, a relatively high 20 percent still are withholding judgment about Mr. Nixon.

The President has made a highly favorable personal impact, especially through his press conferences. This survey was taken during Mr. Nixon's recent trip to Western Europe, and during that time public approval of his "handling relations with European allies" and his "approach to world problems" was also running at better than 2 to 1.

However, it is clear that he has begun to inherit from his predecessor some of the doubts and impatience of the public in seeking quick and ready solutions to such issues as settling the war in Vietnam, re-establishing law and order at home, handling the racial question, taxes and spending, and controlling the cost of living. On all of these latter points, Mr. Nixon currently receives positive marks from less than a majority.

In terms of specifics, here is the way the President is rated by a carefully drawn cross section of the public, consisting of 1,436 households surveyed between Feb. 24 and 28. The sample was asked: "How would you rate the job President Nixon is doing on (Read List) — excellent, pretty good, only fair, or poor?"

Easily the most outstanding impact of the new President can be found in his press conferences. As a communicator, he is scoring well. He has particularly impressed the more affluent sector with the crispness and frankness of his responses to members of the press corps.

Mr. Nixon's Cabinet appointments, which have been the subject of some initial controversy, nonetheless meet with general 2 to 1 approval. Although most of the specific individuals are not yet familiar figures to the American public, the public impression is that of an able and efficient group of administrators.

In his first approaches to world problems, a majority stand in support of Mr. Nixon's efforts in general. It is clear that his European trip was well received at home and certainly contributed to the impression that he has begun to rebuild solid relations with our allies in Europe.

On the domestic front, President Nixon receives higher scores for his overall efforts than for any specific area. People are willing to go along with his general approach to domestic issues. Yet when asked about specific areas here at home, on no single issue does he receive majority backing. However, in all cases except two, he receives the backing of a plurality.

The two exceptions both deal with the consumer's pocketbook: Taxes and spending and the cost of living. The public is divided 34 to 34 percent on his efforts to handle taxes and spending. Even among people who voted for him, no more than 50 percent give Mr. Nixon good marks in this area. On the cost of living, the balance is negative by 27 to 34 percent, although 39 percent are still undecided.

Significantly, before he took office, the American people were dour in their expectations of what President Nixon could do about the twin pinches of taxes and inflation. Their rather gloomy anticipations for the most part are being fulfilled here.

In the civil rights and race area, Mr. Nixon's initial rating is 37 to 29 percent, with 34 percent undecided. However, his negative scores are piled up chiefly from two sources: Negroes who give him a 40 to 35 percent negative rating and supporters of George Wallace who are also 42 to 32 percent negative about the President on the race question. In this sensitive area, Mr. Nixon is initially receiving criticism from the extremes and has not yet picked up wide support from the more moderate middle.

On his handling of the Paris talks, the President's first rating of 34 percent positive is scarcely higher than that of his predecessor, Lyndon Johnson. However, Mr. Nixon has not yet inherited the large negative ratings which accrued to Mr. Johnson, who had a majority giving him low marks on the Vietnam question during his last two years in office. A rather high 38 percent have a wait-and-see view about the President's efforts in Paris. It is clear, however, that the public expects to be pragmatic in its judgment and will base its final evaluation on actual results.

A comparison of the initial expectations about Mr. Nixon's performance with these ratings after taking office, reveals that the new President is scoring higher than expected among these segments of the public: Democrats, Negroes and those in the under-$5,000 income bracket. Those feeling less positive about the President than they thought they would include those who voted for George Wallace, conservative Republicans, and people with incomes of $10,000 and over. Although the President is doing better than expected in normal Democratic strongholds, he has not yet fully satisfied the hopes of people in the rural and border state areas where he did so well last November.

China Charges Soviets Were Responsible

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged today that the Soviet Union provoked the Manchurian border clash March 2 to divert the attention of Russians who are massing for a "revolution" against "Soviet fascist rule."

Some Western analysts have suggested that Peking provoked the bloody fight for a similar reason—to make the Chinese forget internal dissensions and rally behind Mao Tse-tung by raising the specter of a "Soviet threat."

Bolstering this view was an announcement from Peking Sunday that Red Chinese militiamen and peasants are patrolling with frontier guards "in preparedness for war."

Even Chinese peasants who carry manure to the fields consider it "a counterattack against the Soviet revisionists," the broadcast added.

Press reports in Hong Kong and London said Peking has put 5 million men on an armed alert. The official Chinese announcement gave no exact figures.

Each side has accused the other of starting the March 2 battle on a disputed island in the Ussuri River, which separates the Soviet Far East and Manchuria. Moscow said 31 of its soldiers were killed and 14 were wounded. China has not released casualty figures.

Striking Coal Miners Agree To Return

BECKLEY, W.Va. (AP) — Striking coal miners have agreed to return to the pits after Gov. Arch Moore Jr. signs a "black lung" compensation bill but say they'll continue their fight for stronger legislation.

A three-week strike by 41,000 miners has halted the state's coal production.

More than 2,000 delegates from about two-thirds of West Virginia's United Mine Workers union locals meeting Sunday first shouted down a motion to end the walkout as soon as possible, then later agreed to end the strike when the bill is signed. Miners said their food and coal to heat their homes are in short supply.

The state legislature, after haggling for weeks over two bills, approved a measure late Saturday night.

Moore probably will receive the bill Tuesday and is expected to sign it immediately.

The bill provides workmen's compensation benefits for miners with pneumoconiosis, or "black lung," and liberalizes the requirements for determining that a man is suffering from the ailment, which is caused by breathing coal dust.

The largest fee Abraham Lincoln ever received as a lawyer was $5,000.

New Offer Made To Teachers At La Crescent

LA CRESCENT, Minn. (Special) — The La Crescent Board of Education last week offered a third proposal to the La Crescent Education Association.

The new proposal put the base at $6,300 for beginning teachers on the BA level. This is up $300 from this year's schedule. Teachers presently in the schedule will receive a one-step increase plus the raise. A teacher now teaching for the first year would receive a $540 raise.

Other bases on the schedule include $6,400 for a BA plus 16 credits; $6,600 plus 30; $6,800 for a beginning teacher with a MA degree, and $7,200 for a MA plus 15 credits.

The BA would range from $6,300 to $7,700; the MA from $6,900 to $10,200, with the highest salary on the schedule at $10,650 for a MA plus 15 credits with 10 years experience.

Total cost of this proposal is $41,928 and constitutes a 7.6 percent average raise. No mention of family health insurance was made by the board. Teachers are presently receiving paid health insurance.

The board will meet again Wednesday when it will make its best offer to the teachers because salaries must be settled by March 20.

Supt. William Stetzler said the board will take the initiative in pressing for an agreement with the union representing the custodians. In other business the board will consider administrative salaries for next year; discuss changing entrance age of kindergarten students to 5 by Sept. 1, and hear a report from the committee appointed to study building possibilities.

SERVICE AT NELSON

NELSON, Wis. (Special) — "They Scoured Him" will be the theme of the fourth Lenten service Thursday at 8:15 p.m. at Grace Lutheran Church. Sunday school children will sing "There is a Green Hill Far Away." A fellowship hour will follow in the church basement along with a miscellaneous auction by the women.

Sheriff's deputies Roderick Adams Jr., and William La Vigne were authorized to attend the five-week law enforcement school at Arden Hills in May.

County highway employees will join Teamsters Union Local 160 at Red Wing. Ralph Warthesen, board chairman, will negotiate for the county. Employees have been working toward joining the union for several years.

A forfeited land sale will be held April 22 at 2 p.m. in the auditor's office.

Dakota Scouts Plan Court of Honor Tuesday

DAKOTA, Minn. (Special) — Scoutmaster Ralph Grant, and members of Troop 19 went on an overnight camping trip last Friday, spending the night at Queens Bluff. Last week, the same group went swimming at the Winona YMCA. Next Tuesday evening Cub Pack 19 and Troop 19 will provide the main program at the Dakota school gym for their sponsors, the Parent-Teacher Club. A court of honor will be held.

Until the February 21 Blue and Gold banquet, uncertainty about an institutional representative hovered over the two groups. David Romine had moved to his new assignment near Eau Claire, Wis. Since then, Bruce Bearwald volunteered to serve in that capacity.

Cub Scouts will do the flag ceremony, and advancements will be made at the same meeting. Parents and guests are invited. The PTC meeting will begin at 8 p.m., with Mrs. Otto Dobrunz presiding.

On March 27, Cub Pack and Troop 19 youths will preside over a pancake supper at the Dakota school gym, serving to begin late in the afternoon.

Ralph Grant is scoutmaster; Ray Dickson, residing in Dresbach, will serve as assistant. Darrell Ford, resident near Luthersville, is cubmaster. Mrs. Ralph Grant, Dakota, den mother, is assisted by Mrs. Robert Afdelt and Mrs. Joseph Brown.

The Cub Scout committee is composed of Fredrick Augustin, Gerald Duerwachter and Glenn Linander. The Boy Scout committee has Donald Trocinski, Val Niedbalski and C. J. Papenfuss.

Members of Cub Scout Pack 19 are: Thomas Wilson, Gerald Linander, Craig Duerwachter, Russell Brown, Gene Grant, Rory Gile and two recent transfers, Gary and Scott Solom, temporarily living at Pleckwick.

Wabasha Firemen Buy 3 Radios; Add 3 Members

WABASHA, Minn. (Special) — Wabasha Volunteer Fire Department has voted to purchase new equipment costing about $1,800.

Funds for three radio sets, hopefully to be installed before flood season, were purchased with money raised at the annual poultry sale last fall and from the sale of fire extinguishers, which firemen maintain and service.

One radio unit will be installed in the No. 1 fire truck; two are portable units. Through this system the department will work in coordination with the sheriff and police and can call other departments. Michael Boyd, sales representative for the Motorola Co., Minneapolis, put the units on rush order, with arrival expected in from six to eight weeks. He said priority is given to flood area orders this time of year.

A demonstration and film on radio communications were given to familiarize firemen on use of the radios. Depending on the terrain the radios can span 10 miles.

The department has recruited four new members so as to keep membership in the 22 to 25 range. New volunteers are Norman Lochler, Richard Meurer, Hugh Theismann and Gerald Stroet.

A turtle feed followed the meeting, served by Marilyn Aitken and Sheriff Ed Lager.

Ex-City Woman Nominated For Volunteer's Citation

A native of Winona, a mother of seven, was one of the 10 finalists for the "Volunteer of the Year" award in Fresno, Calif.

The nominee, Mrs. Herbert Eltrich, Clovis, Calif., is the former Sherrie Wamhoff, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Herman Wamhoff. Her husband, who works for Dow Chemical Co., Fresno, is the son of Fred Eltrich, 3720 5th St., Goodview.

The couple moved to California 10 years ago. Their address: 942 Rosebrook Ave., Clovis, Calif.

Although raising and keeping house for seven children is enough to keep any woman busy, Mrs. Eltrich decided she needed more activity when her youngest child marched off to school two years ago.

So she offered services to CHORE (Citizens Help Others Receive Education) as a telephone liaison worker.

This year Mrs. Eltrich also serves as an assistant room mother (she was head room mother last year) at the children's school and she also helped with this year's Mothers' March of Dimes.

She relaxes through her affiliation with the ACTS (Association of Combined Talent and Service) workshop which she helped form five years ago and with which she performs. The group gives performances for rest homes, the handicapped, the blind, etc.

A permit for interior remodeling was drawn by Cecil Nowlan, 617 E. 2nd St., for the property at 112 Mankato Avenue at a cost of $250.

John Sagon, 450 E. King St., received a permit for remodeling at a listed cost of $50.

A WRECKING PERMIT was drawn by Armin Boettcher, 720 W. 4th St., for the dismantling of a garage. Curt Malmgren is the contractor.

The split level sprang to popularity after World War II, but has been dressed in many traditional architectural styles in the ensuing years.

Here's one that could very well be nesting in a French countryside. Its outstanding exterior feature, which has a distinct interior advantage, is a mansard roof, invented by a French architect in the 17th century.

IT HAS two slopes on each of its four sides. Because the lower slope is very slight — almost vertical — the dormered top floor has virtually the same amount of headroom as the area below.

The mansard roof in this case is directly over a spacious bedroom wing, highlighted by a luxurious master bedroom suite. The sleeping quarters, with long expanses of wall space for easy furniture placement, stretch 19' from the bedroom hall to the rear of the house, with glass doors leading to a private balcony.

An archway connects the room to a large dressing area with mirrored vanity and two closets. Adjoining the dressing area is a glamorous private bathroom. In addition to a vanity with full mirror above, there is a free-form Roman tub set in a tiled floor, and a water closet screened from view by ornamental wrought iron railings and gates.

TWO OTHER bedrooms, each with double exposure, are served by a sizable bathroom with a double-basined, plastic-topped vanity and full mirror, as well as a tub with shower. Two linen closets are in the bedroom hall.

Architect William G. Chirgottis has given the same kind of spaciousness to the main living level. The living room is 23'6" long, is directly to the left of a large foyer and has two front windows. The adjacent dining room is accessible from the living room and the kitchen. The kitchen has an efficient layout of cabinets, appliances and counter space.

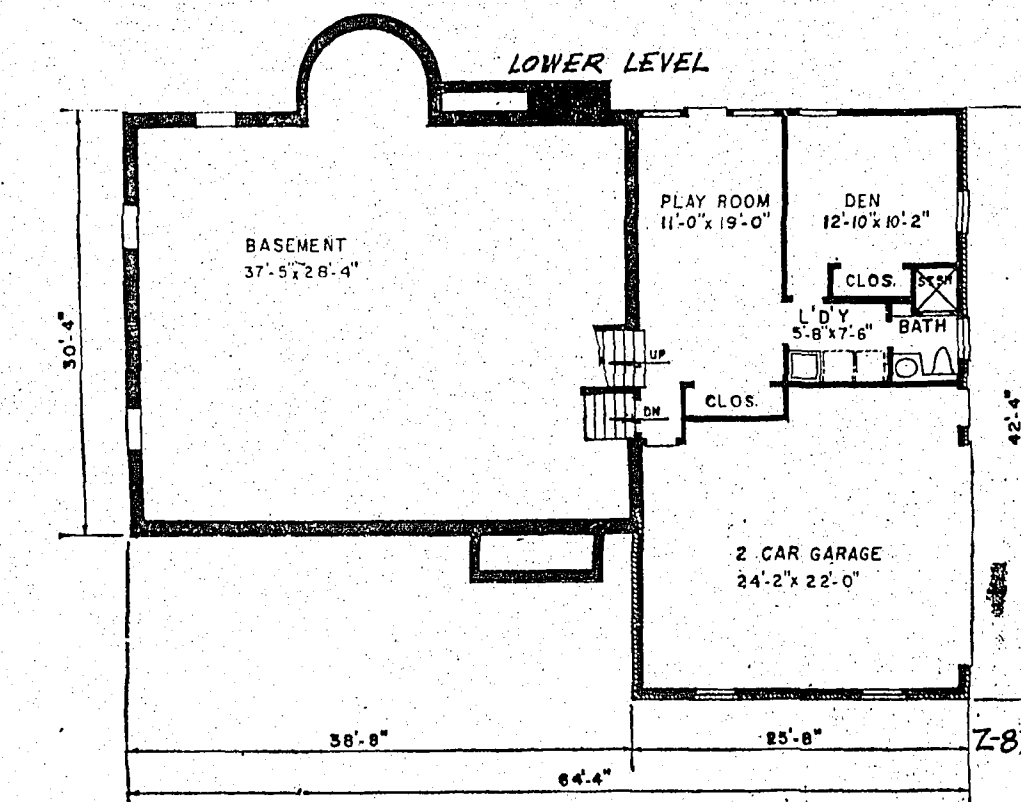

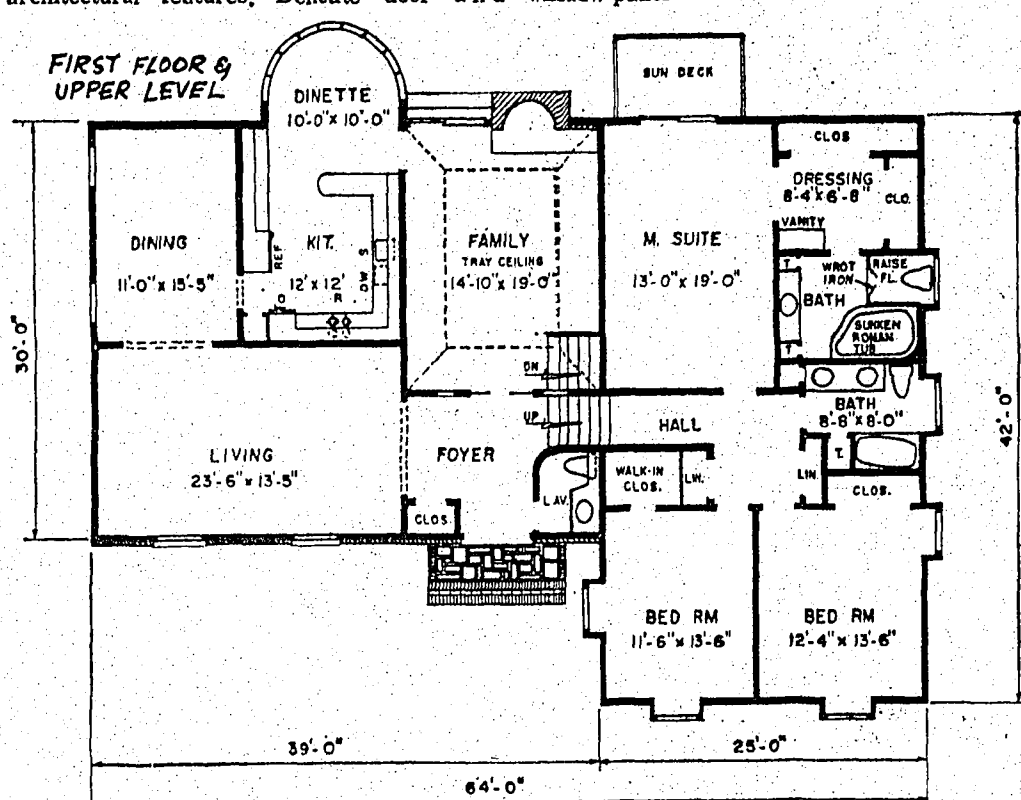

It is enhanced by an imposing dinette area in the form of a semi-circular, floor-to-ceiling bay window with nine casement windows. Not just a little snack space, it is large enough for all informal family meals as well as breakfast.

OFF THE kitchen is the family room, 19' long, set off by a striking arched fireplace built into a brick wall. Next to the fireplace is a sliding glass wall that looks out to the rear garden. The rear of this room, with its fireplace and glass wall, can be seen directly from the front foyer, creating a fine first impression for visitors. A powder room is conveniently located off the foyer.

The level underneath the bedrooms has a two-car garage, a playroom opening to the backyard, a den or fourth bedroom and a bath, complete with stall shower. The alcove connecting the playroom with the den and bath has space for laundry equipment, which is concealed when not in use by a folding partition.

There's everything here for good living — all enclosed in an attractive exterior combining brick, wood shingles and a richness of detail.

Z-83 Statistics

Design Z-83 is a split level, with a living room, dining room, kitchen, dinette, family room, foyer and lavatory on the main level, totaling 1,232 square feet. There are three bedrooms, a dressing area and two baths on the upper level, adding up to 1,050 square feet.

Downstairs, under the bedroom wing, are a two-car garage, a playroom, den or fourth bedroom, laundry area and bath. The basement is under the main level. Overall dimensions, including the garage, are 64' by 42'.

FLOOR PLANS . . . Everything is on a grand scale in this split level arrangement, with special emphasis on the master bedroom suite, long living room and kitchen-dinette combination. Family room on main floor and playroom downstairs provide spacious informal areas.

STILL LOOKING FOR 1ST WIN

Twins Drop 3rd in Row

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, still looking for their first exhibition season baseball victory, weren't scheduled today but Manager Billy Martin called a practice session.

The rookie-dominated lineup of the Twins has lost three straight games, including a 6-3 loss Sunday to the Detroit Tigers. The Twins return to action Tuesday at Winter Haven, Fla., against the Boston Red Sox.

Denny McLain, the Tigers' 31-game winner, allowed a run in the second inning but picked up the victory. Bill Freehan powered a three-run Detroit homer off Roland and Wayne Redmond belted an inside-the-park homer in the seventh inning.

Graig Nettles hit his second homer of the spring season for the Twins with a two-run blast in the fifth inning off John Wyatt.

"Herman Hill tried twice to pick up Redmond's ball in center and he dropped it both times," Martin said. "He was looking at the cutoff man and not the ball. He'll work on that one today, but it should never have been scored as a home run."

Nettles also had a single in four trips, while Tony Oliva and Jim Holt got doubles for the only other Twins hits.

Rookie pitchers Ron Oglesby, Charley Walters and Bill Zepp were impressive. Oglesby, the youngest Twin player at 19, held the Tigers hitless in two innings and became the first Twins pitcher to not allow a hit. Pitchers Dean Chance and Jim Kaat and infielder-outfielder Cesar Tovar remained the only three holdouts. Catcher John Roseboro agreed to terms Saturday.

Pipers Lose Opener of Road Swing

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The Minnesota Pipers started a six-game road swing on the wrong foot Sunday, losing 118-104 to Kentucky in the American Basketball Association.

The Colonels, taking over first place in the Eastern Division, got 42 points from Louie Dampier and 31 from Darel Carrier. Chico Vaughn, with six three-point field goals, led Minnesota with 23 points.

The Colonels put the game out of reach in the third period when they outscored the Pipers 29-14.

The defeat left the Pipers two games behind Kentucky in fourth place.

Minnesota plays at Houston Tuesday night, at Dallas Wednesday night, at Oakland Friday and Saturday nights, and at Indiana next Sunday. The next home game is March 19.

Marquette Gets Second Shot At Kentucky

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Last year the Kentucky Wildcats knocked Marquette out of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament. Thursday the Warriors will have a chance to return the favor.

Marquette won the right to meet Kentucky in the Midwest Regional at Madison with a surprisingly easy 82-62 victory over Murray State at Carbondale, Ill.

"I'm real pleased to play Coach Adolph Rupp again," said Marquette Coach Al McGuire. "We'll be sky high and so will they, and I think my boys will jump a little higher."

But it was the Warriors' running that qualified them for the Midwest Regional. They outdid the speedy Racers at their own game and hit Murray State with a pair of first-half knockout punches.

Marquette outscored the Racers 16-6 and 8-3 in two bursts to take a 42-32 lead into the dressing room. The Racers cut the bulge to three.

But George Thompson, who led all scorers with 23 points, dropped in eight points in three minutes and Marquette was home free.

TRAIL FLYERS BY FOUR

Grant, Stars Tie Blues

ST. PAUL (AP) — The Minnesota North Stars and Danny Grant are in the National Hockey League pressure cooker:

Grant, because he's only one goal away from tying the NHL record of 30 goals by a rookie. The North Stars, because they're struggling for fourth place in the West Division to qualify for a Stanley Cup playoff spot.

"There can't be any more pressure than there is on us now, as a team, to make the playoffs," Grant said Sunday after his two goals carried the Stars to a 2-2 tie against West Division champion St. Louis.

"I'm looking forward to both," Grant said. "It would be nice to get 30. But there is a lot at stake in the playoffs. It tells what kind of season you've had, both individually and for the team."

The North Stars are 4 points behind the fourth place Philadelphia Flyers, going into this week's games.

The Stars play Boston at home Tuesday night, at Montreal Thursday night, Philadelphia at home Saturday night and at St. Louis next Sunday.

Philadelphia, who has played two more games than the Stars, meets only Minnesota and Chicago in the next week.

The pressure cooker blew off a little steam against St. Louis before a crowd of 14,487. Minnesota defenseman Tom Reid was ejected from the game in the first period after he viciously protested a charging call against him.

The ejection also touched off Minnesota General Manager Coach Wren Blair, who charged that officials seem to "have a conspiracy against us."

"I'm not screaming about what they call on us, but what they don't call against the other team," Blair said. "All he (Referee Bill Friday) had to do was give Reid the 10-minute major penalty and walk away. But he wouldn't do this."

Reid said later he swore at the official because "it was a bad call in the first place." Blair described it as a "dirty call."

Goalie Cesare Maniago, victim of the St. Louis goals by Barclay Plager and Ab McDonald, aggravated a rib injury and was replaced in the second period for the second time in the game by rookie Fern Rivard, who held the Blues scoreless.

Rivard will start against Boston.

Grant's second goal at 11:46 of the second period tied the game when his 20-foot shot from the side found a slight opening between goalie Glenn Hall's knees and the post.

Hall kept his spell on the Stars, kicking out 28 shots and remaining unbeaten against them this year.

"It was a busy day," Hall said. "Those near misses keep you moving."

First Period — 1. Minnesota: Grant 28 (O'Shea, Nannos) 2:27. 2. St. Louis: Plager 12 (Roberts) 11:00. Penalties — Plager (SL) 8:44; Sabourin (SL) 11:44; Reid (Minn) minor, game misconduct 14:45.

Second Period — 3. St. Louis: McDonald 29 (Henry, Berenson) 1:29. 4. Minnesota: Grant 29 (O'Shea, Larose) 11:46. Penalties — Ecclestone (SL) 17:18.

THIRD PERIOD — No scoring. Penalties — None. Shots on goal: ST. LOUIS 33, MINN. 23. Goals — Hall (SL); Maniago, Rivard (Minn.). A-14,000.

Will Bucs Evade Injury Bug?

(Fourth of Series on League Team Prospects.)

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — When Larry Shepard got the word from Joe Brown, Pittsburgh general manager, that he was rehired for another term as manager of the Pirates, he called up his wife.

"We're going to be back in Pittsburgh," said Shepard with a lit in his voice.

"That's nice," replied Mrs. Shepard.

"If that's what you want, it's fine. I just don't want to put in another year like last year."

It was that kind of a year for the Shepard family—Larry, wife Joyce and Larry, Jr., his 13-year-old son.

Gene Alley couldn't throw. Bill Mazeroski couldn't run. Roberto Clemente hurt his shoulder and couldn't take his normal swing. Willie Stargell ran into a wall.

Freddie Patek, Alley's stand-in, was hit by a pitch. Jim Bunning pulled a muscle and then sprained an ankle. Tommie Sisk twisted an ankle. It was a wonder Shepard didn't cut his throat.

"I still think we had the material to compete with anybody in the National League," said Shepard, "but everything went wrong."

"I don't know yet how the kids will work out. We have to replace both Maury Wills and Donn Clendenon, who went in the expansion draft. If the big guys can help carry the load and if we can avoid those injuries, we should be all right."

The old problems of '68 came back to haunt Shepard in spring training when Alley, his regular shortstop, was sent to Norris-town, Pa. for observation for a mysterious shoulder ailment. Alley hurt the shoulder in late '67 and had trouble putting anything on the ball last year, while slumping to .245.

Mazeroski never was able to shake off a bad muscle pull last year and was unable to work himself into top condition. A winter of rest has restored the Maz of old. "He got up to 195 and ground balls even went through his legs," said Shepard. Now he's down to 185.

Clemente, a four-time batting champion, took it easy all winter. The shoulder injury, that resulted from a fall at his home a year ago, apparently has healed. He has been slinging the ball in practice.

His 201 last season represented a 66-point drop from his leading .357 in 1967. The shoulder also handicapped his throwing. Stargell has trimmed down about eight pounds to 224 in hopes of lifting his average from its career low of .237.

Matty Alou, who lost the batting title to Pete Rose of Cincinnati on the final day despite a .332 season, is the center fielder, flanked by Stargell in left and Clemente in right.

Shepard plans to take some of the catching weight off Jerry May and will give Manny Sanguillen, a .316 hitter at Columbus, a chance to share the job.

Bunning was the big man last spring but his dismal 4-14 year dropped him back with the others. The 37-year-old right-hander is confident he can regain his old form.

UCLA Victory String Ended

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Hope once again springs eternal in the human breast, thanks to the Southern California Trojans. They have proved that UCLA's basketball team is mortal after all.

Where only two days ago the teams remaining in the NCAA postseason tournament were given little chance of dethroning powerful UCLA, the much-beaten Trojans made the once impossible dream come true.

USC, which is not even in the tournament, did it by upending the Bruins 46-44 Saturday night in a colossal upset in the last regular season game for both clubs. The loss ended UCLA's 41-game victory streak, its 85-game string at home and was only its second defeat in 90 games.

While the loss probably will serve to arouse the methodical Bruins when they begin defense of the NCAA title they have won the last two years, it also has given all challengers the new idea that UCLA can be beaten.

"It only proves UCLA is mortal," said Lou Carnesecca, coach of St. John's, one of the teams that advanced to the regionals last Saturday with a 72-63 victory over Princeton.

"The loss could be a great thing for UCLA because it now takes the pressure of the long winning streak off, or it could be that the team is mentally and physically tired. If that's the case, they could be in for trouble." Coach John Wooden of UCLA felt the loss "might help us in tournament play."

"We were not fired up. They wanted it a little more than we did."

USC, a crosstown rival which pushed the Bruins into double overtime Friday night before losing 61-55, beat UCLA for the first time in 18 games on Ernie Powell's jump shot with seven seconds remaining.

Playing a slowdown game, the Trojans, who lost 11 games this season, took only 20 shots and hit 12 of them. But just as important, they held giant 7-foot 1 1/2 All-American Lew Alcindor to 10 points, largely on the play of 7-1 Ron Taylor.

New Mexico State, 24-3, a 74-62 first-round winner over Brigham Young Saturday night, will get the first crack at the top-ranked Bruins in the tournament Thursday night in the Far West regional.

There were several less spectacular upsets in the first round as Miami of Ohio surprised 17th-ranked Notre Dame 63-60, Weber State slipped by Seattle 75-73 and Colorado State edged Dayton 52-50. Elsewhere, the favorites advanced.

Fifth-ranked Davidson ousted 10th-ranked Villanova 75-61; Duquesne, No. 9, had a 74-52 breeze over St. Joseph's, Pa.; Marquette, No. 14, blasted Murray State 82-62, and Texas A&M bombed Trinity, Tex., 81-66.

North Carolina, No. 4, moved into the tourney by getting by Duke 85-74 for the Atlantic Coast Conference title, and Colorado won a bid by winning the Big Eight crown with a 92-73 rout over Missouri while Kansas lost to Kansas State 64-57.

IN FINAL 120-76 ROMP

Purdue Sets Bevy of Marks

CHICAGO (AP) — Having won the Big Ten crown with ease, Purdue's record-breaking Boilermakers are going to do a little basketball homework before entering the NCAA playoffs.

Their first opponent will be Miami of Ohio, a band of Redskins who ambushed and scalped Notre Dame 63-60 in Saturday's opening playoff round.

The Redskins aren't going to trap the Boilermakers because Purdue played Miami earlier in the season. The result was a 78-70 victory for the Boilermakers but Coach George King recalled "It was one of our toughest games at home this season."

King was right. It was the narrowest margin of victory at home for the Boilermakers, who had to come from behind in the second half to subdue the Redskins.

After Purdue smashed Indiana 120-76 Saturday to set a school scoring record, King hustled off to a television set and caught most of Miami's victory over Notre Dame.

"One thing that bothers me," he continued, "is that the team has changed quite a bit from the time we played them. Some of the guys who started against us weren't in there against Notre Dame."

Although Purdue might have to play without the services of Herman Gilliam, the Boilermakers figure to be prohibitive favorites over the Redskins Thursday night at Madison, Wis., in the semifinal round of the Midwest Regional, which also finds Marquette playing Kentucky.

"Our bench has done a tremendous job since Herm sprained his ankle," said King. "But I'd breathe a lot easier if he's in there. I'm not sure if he'll be ready. It's one of those day to day things."

Purdue wound up the Big Ten campaign with a 13-1 record and was 20-4 on the season with the one-sided triumph over Indiana.

Rick Mount again led the way with 40 points to set a Purdue record of 810 for one season and a Big Ten mark of 493 in 14 games, breaking the standard established by Ohio State's Gary Bradds in 1964.

Illinois and Ohio State both won Saturday to finish in a tie for second place, four games behind the Boilermakers. Illinois defeated Northwestern 78-66 and Ohio State dumped Michigan 95-86. Minnesota downed Michigan State 78-65 and Wisconsin closed out Iowa 84-74 as all five home teams were victorious.

Sievers 2nd in State 100 Free

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—Junior freestyler Jeff Sievers led Winona High to a 12th place finish in the Minnesota High School swimming tournament at Cooke Hall on the University of Minnesota campus Saturday.

The Hawks finished with 26½ points. Hopkins, the tournament favorite, splashed to an easy victory, finishing with 24½ points to runnerup Rochester Mayo's 139½. Defending champion Edina was third with 131 points followed by Golden Valley 8, Hibbing 77, St. Cloud Tech 70, Robbinsdale 67, Bloomington Kennedy 65½, Marshall U High 44½, Austin 31½, Highland Park 28 and Winona. Of the 58 teams participating in the tournament, only 29 scored points. Winona also finished 12th in last year's tournament. Sievers finished second in the 100-yard freestyle behind Rochester Mayo's Jeff Latz and came in eighth in the 50-yard freestyle.

Diver Mark Nichols was 10th in his event while Joel Ljungkull came in 11th in the 100-yard breaststroke.

The Winona High 200-yard medley relay team of Mark Ferdinandsen, Ljungkull, Tom Robinson and Todd Taylor also finished 11th.

The Hawk 400-yard freestyle relay team was hampered by an injury suffered by Jon Hohmeister in the preliminaries. Hohmeister was knocked unconscious in a pool accident and was unable to compete, although he was not hospitalized.

Assistant coach Larry Clingman, handling the team in the absence of head coach Lloyd Lake, said he was not disappointed by the team's finish. "We finished about where we expected to. Sievers swam well for us in the 100-freestyle to give us the most points. When half the teams entered don't score any points at all, getting 26½ sounds pretty good," he said.

Warriors 10th In NAIA Mat

OMAHA, Neb.—Jim Tanniehill, disqualified on a dubious ruling in the semifinals, came back to win third place in the 152-pound class at the NAIA wrestling tournament here Saturday. Teammates Bill Hitesman (167) and Pete Sandberg (145) finished fifth and sixth, respectively, to round out Winona State's place winners.

The Warriors finished 10th in over all team standings. Adams (Colo.) State won its second straight title with 88 points. The University of Nebraska at Omaha was second with 84 points, Lock Haven (Pa.) State third with 60. Wayne (Neb.) State fourth with 57 and Upper Iowa fifth with 44. Over 70 teams competed in the three-day tournament.

"Considering our physical condition (three Warrior regulars: Rog Jehlicka, Ron Oglesby and Ron Moen, were injured) we finished about as well as expected, although we were a little miffed over Tanniehill's disqualification in the semis," said Winona State coach Bob Gunner, today. Tanniehill had won his first three matches on pins and was leading 9-2 in the semifinals when he was disqualified for using what the referee termed a body slam.

He came back, however, to win his two consolation flight matches and take third.

Hitesman and Sandberg also won their first three matches before losing. Winona State closes its season this weekend at the NCAA meet in Provo, Utah.

Who'll Pinch Hit for New Pinch Hitters?

By DICK COUCH

Associated Press Sports Writer
Luman Harris and Ralph Houk have discovered, much to their satisfaction, that some good hitters are neither born nor made—but designated.

Now all they have to do is come up with a couple of able appointees to pinch hit for pinch hitters Hank Aaron and Roy White.

Aaron, batting in the pitcher's spot under the designated pinch hitter rule being tried out in spring training games, started Harris' Atlanta Braves to an 11-3 romp over Los Angeles Sunday by smashing a first inning home run.

White, playing the same role for Houk's New York Yankees, socked a tying, three-run homer in a four-run ninth that nipped Baltimore 7-6.

Aaron, however, was hit on the right knee by a Pete Mikkelsen pitch in the seventh inning and will miss today's Braves-Yankees exhibition at West Palm Beach, Fla. And White, who joined the Yanks on a weekend pass from the Army, will be back on duty at Fort Dix, N.J.

While Aaron and White were delivering the long ball in the pinch for the Braves and Yanks, conventional homers helped six other clubs nail exhibition victories.

Joe Lis hit a three-run blast in the 10th inning, keying Philadelphia's 8-4 triumph over Pittsburgh. Larry Hise and Johnny Callison also homered for the Phillies and Jose Martinez connected for the Pirates.

Rookie Ken Myette pitched three scoreless innings and clouted a two-run homer, leading Cincinnati past the Chicago White Sox 4-0. Detroit scored five runs in the first inning—three on Bill Freehan's homer—and whipped Minnesota 6-3.

Homers by Dalton Jones, Reggie Smith and Billy Conigliaro powered Boston to a 12-4 romp over St. Louis.

Joe Morgan hit a two-run shot as Houston flattened the New York Mets 5-3 with five runs in the third inning and Al Ferraro touched off a four-run second inning burst with a two-run wallop, pacing the San Diego Padres to a 6-2 victory over the San Diego Marines.

San Francisco cuffed Cleveland with five first-inning runs and routed the Indians 9-3 for a 3-0 exhibition mark. Willie Mays, the Giants' new leadoff hitter, started the first-inning fireworks by drawing a walk and singled in the fifth to trigger a two-run wrap-up rally.

Aurelio Rodriguez, Jarvis Tatum and Tom Egan cracked three hits each as California thumped the Chicago Cubs 10-5. Gerry McNertney's double launched a three-run sixth-inning flurry that carried Seattle to a 6-3 verdict over Oakland.

Kansas City's A team trimmed Washington 5-2, handing Ted Williams' Senators their third setback without a victory, and the Royals B squad, rocked by five Montreal runs in the top of the eighth, struck back with six in the bottom half for an 8-5 conquest of the Expos.

Still Records 1st Tournament Win at Citrus

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Ken Still and Sandy Koufax have something in common beside a personal friendship—they both waited a long time to become winners.

But while Sandy sat on the Dodger bench waiting for his chance, Still bounced around 16 years from job to job before winning his first golf tournament.

Ken's moment finally came Sunday at the $115,000 Citrus Open with a final round 70 for a 72-hole total of 10-under par 278, one stroke ahead of Miller Barber. But it came the hard way.

The friendly, 34-year-old bachelor from Tacoma, Wash., said he felt he'd win the tournament after an eight-foot putt for a par 5 on the first hole of the par 72 Rio Pinar Country Club course. But his prediction was premature.

He hit into a lake on the 165-yard, par 3 12th for a double bogey and scrambled for a par 4 at 14 when he found the water again. And at 18 his second shot landed in the gallery.

"I started to cry in the middle of the 18th fairway because I knew if I'd par in, I'd win," he said.

"When I finished I felt like jumping over the top of the TV stand. I've never been so happy."

Barber blew himself out of contention when he topped his tee shot at 18 and landed his second shot under the bleachers for a double bogey 6.

Johnny Pott, tied after the third round with Bert Yancey, wound up at 280 with Orville Moody.

Gay Brewer finished at 281. In at 282 were Lee Trevino, Dave Stockton, Tom Weiskopf and Lee Elder.

Yancey posted a 283 and tied for 10th with Jack Nicklaus, 1968 champion Dan Sikes, Dean Refram and Dale Douglass.

Halvorson, Hanson Lead All-Big 9

AUSTIN, Minn. — Ten seniors have been named to the Big Nine All-Conference basketball team as selected by Big Nine sportswriters and sportscasters.

Big Nine champion Rochester John Marshall came away with two spots on the squad, one on the first team and another on the second five. Austin was the only other team to have two players chosen, both on the second team.

Making up the first five are John Marshall's 6-5 Mark Hanson who can play either guard or forward. He averaged 17 points-per-game this year and is the lowest scoring member of the first five.

The top scorer is Owatonna's 6-5 Dan Halvorson, named at a guard position. Halvorson led the Big Nine with a 29.7 mark. Jack Gudnecht from cellar dwelling Faribault joined Hanson at forward. Gudnecht, 6-3½, averaged 25.2 points-per-game this season.

The other guard is Albert Lea's 6-2 Jay Gustafson who popped in points at a 22.3 clip.

Mankato's 6-6 Kevin Thom was the starting center. Thom was the fourth leading scorer in the Big Nine with a 20.4 mark. With his addition the first five averages 6-4½ per man.

Gudnecht, Halvorson and Gustafson were all unanimous selections.

The two Austin cagers on the second team are 6-7 Craig Goshua and 6-0 Tim Ball, the tall and the short of the squad. In between are 6-4 Craig Jensen of Rochester, 6-5 Mark Badger of Rochester, Mayo and 6-4 Jeff Percy of Red Wing.

The second five averages exactly 6-4. Jensen is the top scorer of the group with an 18.7 mark and Badger the lowest at 14.4.

La Crosse Wins WSUC Swim

SUPERIOR, Wis. (AP) — La Crosse State, doggedly pursuing Stevens Point for two days, splashed home in the final event Saturday to nail down an upset conquest of the State University Conference swimming championship.

La Crosse, not highly rated as a prospective winner, trailed the Pointers 50-49 after Friday's events, and was down 87-85 going into the last contest: The 400-yard freestyle relay.

In a breathless close, the Indians finished the event in 3:25.5, a second ahead of Stevens Point, and gained enough points for first place.

Final team totals: La Crosse 99 points, Stevens Point 97, River Falls 87, Oshkosh 62, Whitewater 48, defending champion Platteville 43, Superior 19, Stout 2.

Villanova is Still Best in IC4A Track

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
"I was running for the team, not myself tonight, Marty Liquori of defending champion Villanova said after leading the Wildcats to the IC4A Indoor Track and Field Championships.

Villanova, coached by Jim Elliott, captured the 48th edition for the 10th time in 13 years as his Liquori-led Wildcats came up with three meet-record performances in taking the team title with 46 points to 32½ for runner-up Maryland.

And Liquori, the 19-year-old sophomore, stretched his unbeaten string to five at New York's Madison Square Garden before 9,006 Saturday night.

Liquori set his record in the mile-run as he was clocked in 4:05.3, breaking ex-Wildcat Dave Patrick's mark of 4:05.1. The Cedar Grove, N.J., youngster in his four other outings at the Garden, won the Millrose mile in 4:00.8—the fastest of the indoor season—the Federation two-mile, K of C 1000 and the Olympic Invitational 1500 meters.

At the U.S. Track and Field Federation meet in Milwaukee, Wisconsin took the most titles as four records were broken.

Mark Winzenried of the Badgers lowered the meet mark in the 880-yard run to 1:51.8 while Dan Tague of Texas El-Paso bested the 600-yard standard with a 1:10.4 clocking.

Wisconsin's other victories were in the 50-yard high hurdles, 5.9 by Mike Butler and Ray Arrington's victory in the 1,000 of 2:11.5.

Van Hoof Stays Unbeaten in Ring

Tom Van Hoof, Winona's light heavyweight boxer who won the Upper Midwest Golden Gloves championship recently, defeated Ron Onefather of Omaha, Neb., Sunday by a unanimous decision at Stillwater. Onefather is the Midwest regional champion.

The fight was one of several on a card which included several regional Golden Glove champions. It was Van Hoof's sixth victory in as many fights this year.

Space Agency in Money Trouble?

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The fascination of flying to the moon may cause problems for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration when it tries to get money for less glamorous flights.

NASA has plans on the drawing board for extensive earth orbit flights, including laboratories with up to 100 men spending months in space.

But projects of this type will cost billions, and some NASA officials worry that after a moon landing, an earth orbit flight will be anticlimactic and hard to sell to Congress and the taxpayers.

"It doesn't come across as a television spectacular as well as flying to the moon," said one space official. "It doesn't have the same definition of a fixed goal."

When Americans first started flying in space eight years ago any manned flight sparked a great public interest.

But as NASA piled one spectacular on top of another, interest tailed off, officials say.

Apollo 8's loop-the-loop of the moon last December was a high point, they say, and Apollo 9, an earth orbit flight testing the lunar module, has been a letdown.

Even people in the program feel this. One flight controller called Apollo 9's flight a "lame duck mission."

But space officials believe that the real payoff of space flight will come first from earth orbit flights. Scientists in orbiting space stations will be able to predict weather accurately, assess crop growth, find minerals hidden to men searching on the earth's surface and even locate schooling fish, space officials believe.

But they agree the value of these flights, in ratio to the cost, is still theoretical. And theory, they say, is sometimes hard to sell.

Give Defendants Right to Examine Transcripts, Logs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Criminal defendants whose conversations or "premises" were bugged by federal agents have a right to examine government transcripts and logs, the Supreme Court ruled 5 to 3 today.

This includes government records relating to national security matters. The Justice Department has argued strenuously against such action.

The point of the examination by defense attorneys is to determine if prosecution was built on illegal eavesdropping.

The government already had conceded its obligation to disclose illegal bugging if the bugging helped the prosecution. But it maintained this examination should be done by a federal judge—not by the defendant's lawyers.

The court, in an opinion by Justice Byron R. White, a former Justice Department official, disagreed. He said if the bugging hearings "are to be more than a formality and petitioners (defendants) not left entirely to reliance on government testimony, there should be turned over to them the records of those overheard conversations."

Army Sacks Bagboys for Civil Servants

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army has sacked a squad of grocery bagboys at a nearby post and will replace them with civil servants who will cost the government about $123,000 a year.

The bagboys, part of an anti-poverty group from Washington, were fired after a series of complaints from military housewives who shop at the base supermarket at Ft. Myer, Va.

The shoppers said the boys, mostly high school dropouts with police records from Washington's slum areas, were rude and didn't do their work properly. One woman complained that she found her groceries soaked in vinegar after she corrected a bagboy after his packing.

The bagboys were paid $1.60 an hour. The pay came partially from tips, with the sponsoring group, the United Planning Organization, making up the difference.

The Army will replace the fired bagboys with 28 civilians to be hired through civil service and paid $2.11 an hour, according to Leonard Sims of the Military District of Washington.

Spokesmen for the anti-poverty group said the problems with the house shoppers weren't all the boys' fault.

"All the boys hadn't been saints and all the customers hadn't been saints," Clifford Flood said, "but I think the wife of somebody important didn't like it and got to the right person."

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Anoka won its second straight Minnesota High School Gymnastics title at suburban Robbinsdale Cooper Saturday night with 59 points. White Bear Lake was second with 47.5 points and Cooper third with 46. Anoka captured second, third and eighth in the rings — the next to last event — to clinch the title.

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Shattuck, running its two-season unbeaten streak to 45 straight games, turned back Central Minnesota Christian of Prinsburg 70-60 Saturday night for the Minnesota Independent High School Basketball championship. Shattuck's 6-foot-7 Tony Jenkins scored 13 of his 27 points in the fourth period.

'The Judge': Quite a Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — He is called the "Judge" and the title says a lot about the style of Hamer H. Budge, new boss of the Securities and Exchange Commission.

The quiet, closed-mouth, judicial way of doing business used by the 58-year-old former Idaho congressman puts him in sharp contrast to his old friend and predecessor, Manuel F. Cohen, who resigned last month under pressure from President Nixon.

But the new chairman, who was elevated to the job after serving as an SEC member since 1964, says there won't be major changes in the policy of the commission, which was criticized by Nixon during the presidential campaign as "heavy handed."

While refusing to comment on the Nixon charges, Budge said "I think the SEC will continue to do its job just as it has in the past," he said in an interview.

And so do his subordinates, many of whom admit they will miss the stormy weather that seemed to mark the Cohen years.

"Nixon has picked a man who's 110 per cent behind our enforcement programs," one attorney said. "Judge Budge is very enforcement minded," he added. "I don't think it would be right to say the President has picked him with the idea he'll lay low or go light on the industry."

At the same time, observers figure Budge to be less an innovator than Cohen, who kept Wall Street constantly on edge.

While Budge spent only three years in his pre-SEC days as a federal judge, compared with a full decade as Republican congressman from Idaho, the time on the bench seems to have left the more lasting mark.

"When he sits there," an SEC official said, "he looks like a judge. Thinks like one too. He does a good job of getting right to the heart of something with a single question."

Another Budge-watcher said there need be no concern about the new chairman, so long as he is faced with courses of action where the law indicates what must be done.

"He tends to be rather a purist on the law, it seemed to me," he said. "If the law says A plus B equals C then it doesn't matter how activist or nonactivist the judge is. He'll do what the law says and nothing will keep him from it."

While Budge likes to keep his opinion to himself, he expresses concern about giantism in American business.
